ROGERS - RANGER AND LOYALIST

By Walter Rogers, B.A., Barrister, Inner Temple, London, Eng.

Read before the United Empire Loyalists' Association of Ontario, at Toronot, 14th December, 1899, by Lt-Col. H.C. Rogers of Peterborough, Ontario.

The somewhat tardy justice which has been done to the memory of the Loyalists of the American Revolution, although not, perhaps, directly attributable to the spirit of imperialism now afoot, has, in point of time, coincided not inappropriately with that movement.

In his monumental work on the history of England in the eighteenth century, Mr. Lecky's estimate of the character and position of the so-called Tories in the revolted colonies, has found a sufficiently ungrudging echo in the pages of not a few recent historical writers on this continent. In truth, Mr. Lecky's contention, "that the Loyalists to a great extent sprang from and represented the old gentry of the country," could, in the light of modern research, hardly be denied. American scholars of the type of Professor Hosmer of Washington, and Professor Tyler of Cornell, have amply, indeed generously, recognized this fact. It is to be regretted that the results of a century of misrepresentation concerning the Loyalists are still reflected in the tone of the more popular works on history disseminated in the United States. It was, perhaps, to be expected that the representatives of a beaten cause could hardly look for panegyric at the hands of the owners of the confiscated property and their immediate descendants. The great migration which ensued upon the rebellion, has been more than once compared, both in the magnitude of its scale and the pathos of its circumstances, with the Huguenot exodus from France a century earlier.

The efforts of this and of other kindred societies in the Dominion, should do much towards supplying material for future students of the inner history of the Loyalist migration. A few facts drawn, in so far as they are new, from documentary sources in the British Museum,¹ and from the War Office Correspondence² now preserved at the Record Office in London, may possibly prove not uninteresting, as a humble contribution towards the better understanding of the circumstances which attended the early settlement of part of this Province.

The founder of my own family in Upper Canada was my great-great-grandfather, Col. James Rogers. During the revolutionary war he had served for five years as commandant of a corps known as the King's Rangers, which, during that time, formed part of the garrison of St. Johns, Quebec. This post commanded the northern outlet of the great waterway which connects the valley of the Hudson with that of the St. Lawrence. At the Peace, my ancestor settled with some two hundred of his disbanded soldiers upon the shores of the Bay of Quinte, he and his followers occupying what is known as the township of Fredericksburg, (as well as part of an adjoining township.)³

The earliest recorded connection of this officer with Canada, however, dates from a quarter of a century earlier than the settlement. Of that part of the so-called Seven Years' War which was waged upon this continent, he saw service from the commencement to the close.¹

As a captain in command of a detachment of his more famous brother, Robert Rogers' regiment - serving, however, independently of the main body - he took part in the campaigns in Cape Breton and Canada, under Wolfe and Amherst. He was present at the successive captures of Louisbourg, Quebec, and Montreal; the steps by which Canada passed from French to English rule.

Before Montreal, the army of the St. Lawrence, in which he was acting, was joined by the forces from the south, in whose campaigns the main body of the Rogers' Rangers, eight hundred strong, under the command of his brother Robert, had played a somewhat conspicuous part.

Upon the capitulation of Montreal and the cession of Canada, this latter officer was despatched by the commander-in-chief upon the first British expedition, as such, up the great lakes. With two hundred of his rangers and a staff of executive officers, Robert Rogers made the voyage, in whaleboats, from Montreal to Detroit. The successive French posts upon the route were visited; the white standard of the Bourbons was replaced by the flag of Great Britain, and allegiance to His Britannic Majesty exacted.

The story of this voyage has often been told, notably in the Major's own military journals published in London in 1765, a work, which, with its companion volume, an account of North America, betraying an intimate knowledge of the continent from Labrador to the mouth of the Mississippi, has ever since been regarded as a valuable authority upon the geographical history of this country.

With the early and more brilliant part of the career of Robert Rogers, whose exploits as a partisan or light-infantry officer fill a large space in the history of the French and Pontiac Wars, we are not here immediately concerned. He has been the object of enthusiastic praise and of no less virulent detraction.

It is, however, a source of what, I trust, you will not regard as altogether unpardonable pride to my family and myself, that one of our name should have been thus intimately concerned in a transaction which was virtually the inception, as part of the British Dominions, of what is now the Province of Ontario, - a province which, from its earliest settlement, has been our home.

The interval between the close of the Seven Years' War, or, rather, of the Pontiac War, in which he also bore a part, and the revolt of the Colonies, was occupied by my great-great-grandfather, James Rogers, in the building up of an estate in that part of the Province of New York which was subsequently erected into the State of Vermont. Partly by grant as a reward for his services, and partly by purchase, he acquired what was, in extent, a very considerable property, scattered from twenty miles west of the Connecticut River to the shores of Lake Champlain. The crown patent for some 22,000 acres of this estate in Windham County is still in possession of the family. We know from a letter in the Haldimand Correspondence, dated 1780, that the value he placed upon his property in the colonies was between thirty and forty thousand pounds.¹ Frequent references in the same correspondence show that the position he had occupied in Vermont, previously to the revolution, was one of influence and authority. The respect in which he was held in the country that had formerly been his home, is testified to by the fact that even after the Peace, viz.: in the spring of 1784, he had been invited by the leading men of the State to pay a visit to Vermont in order to facilitate the removal of his wife and family to their new home in the British Dominions.

Notwithstanding the efforts of his friends, the reception which he met with was not unmingled with insult at the hands of the owners of the confiscated property, who now grasped the helm; and the good man's surprise and horror at the state of anarchy prevailing are depicted in his letter to the commander-in-chief on his return to his regiment at St. Johns.

Between the close of the French and Indian Wars, and until after the outbreak of the American revolution, the other brother, Robert Rogers, spent most of his time in England. Here his various books were published² and here he enjoyed a very considerable notoriety. In old magazines of the period, and in the chronicles of the time, his exploits and his books find frequent mention.³ The story of his prowess in the single-handed capture of a highwayman went the round of the taverns. His portrait in full Ranger uniform, with Indians in the background, adorned the windows of the print-shops, and was even reproduced in Germany. His tall figure, in half-pay officer's uniform, became a not unfamiliar object in the Court quarter of the town. He undoubtedly enjoyed the patronage and favour of the King. One of his enemies writing in 1770 to Sir William Johnson, complains that "Robert Rogers has the ear of the court; that many of the great are pushing for him; and that Mr. Fitzherbert, an officer high in the household of George III, is his particular friend."⁴ Indeed, to the end he seems to have enjoyed the not entirely unequivocal distinction of King George's approbation. Lord George Germaine, writing to Gen. Howe as late as 1776, says, "The King approves the arrangement you propose, in respect to an adjutant-general, and a quartermaster-general, and also your attention to Major Rogers, of whose firmness and fidelity we have received further testimony from Governor Tryon."⁵

1. The picture which Sir George Trevelyan has drawn, in his recent volume on the American revolution, of the Utopian condition of colonial society in the days immediately preceding the rebellion, although perhaps too highly coloured, is not without considerable foundation in fact. The strong pro-American tone of the volume is perhaps only what was to be expected from the nephew of Macaulay and from the depositary par excellence of the Whig tradition.

George III.'s choice of instruments at this period, notably in the case of Lord George¹ himself, as Secretary for the Colonies, is not generally regarded as betraying exceptional political sagacity.

Notwithstanding the royal favour, which does not seem to have been alienated even by his alleged eccentricity in appearing for a wager, on one occasion, at the King's levee, in the buckskin gaiters worn by rangers during their woodland campaigns, Robert Rogers was probably more at home in the society of soldiers of fortune, where his prowess as a boon companion and raconteur was doubtless popular.

In 1772 we find him writing from his lodgings at Spring Gardens, Charing Cross.² Soon after that, his superfluous energies found vent in foreign warfare. A true Captain Dalgetty, he fought in Northern Africa in the Algerine service. We know from a letter of Washington's that he was assigned to service in the East Indies³ when the outbreak of hostilities in America recalled him to the scene of his earlier activities. That he arrived in America with an open mind is not impossible. Unlike his less brilliant but more substantial brother, James, he was probably not the man to suffer gladly for a principle.

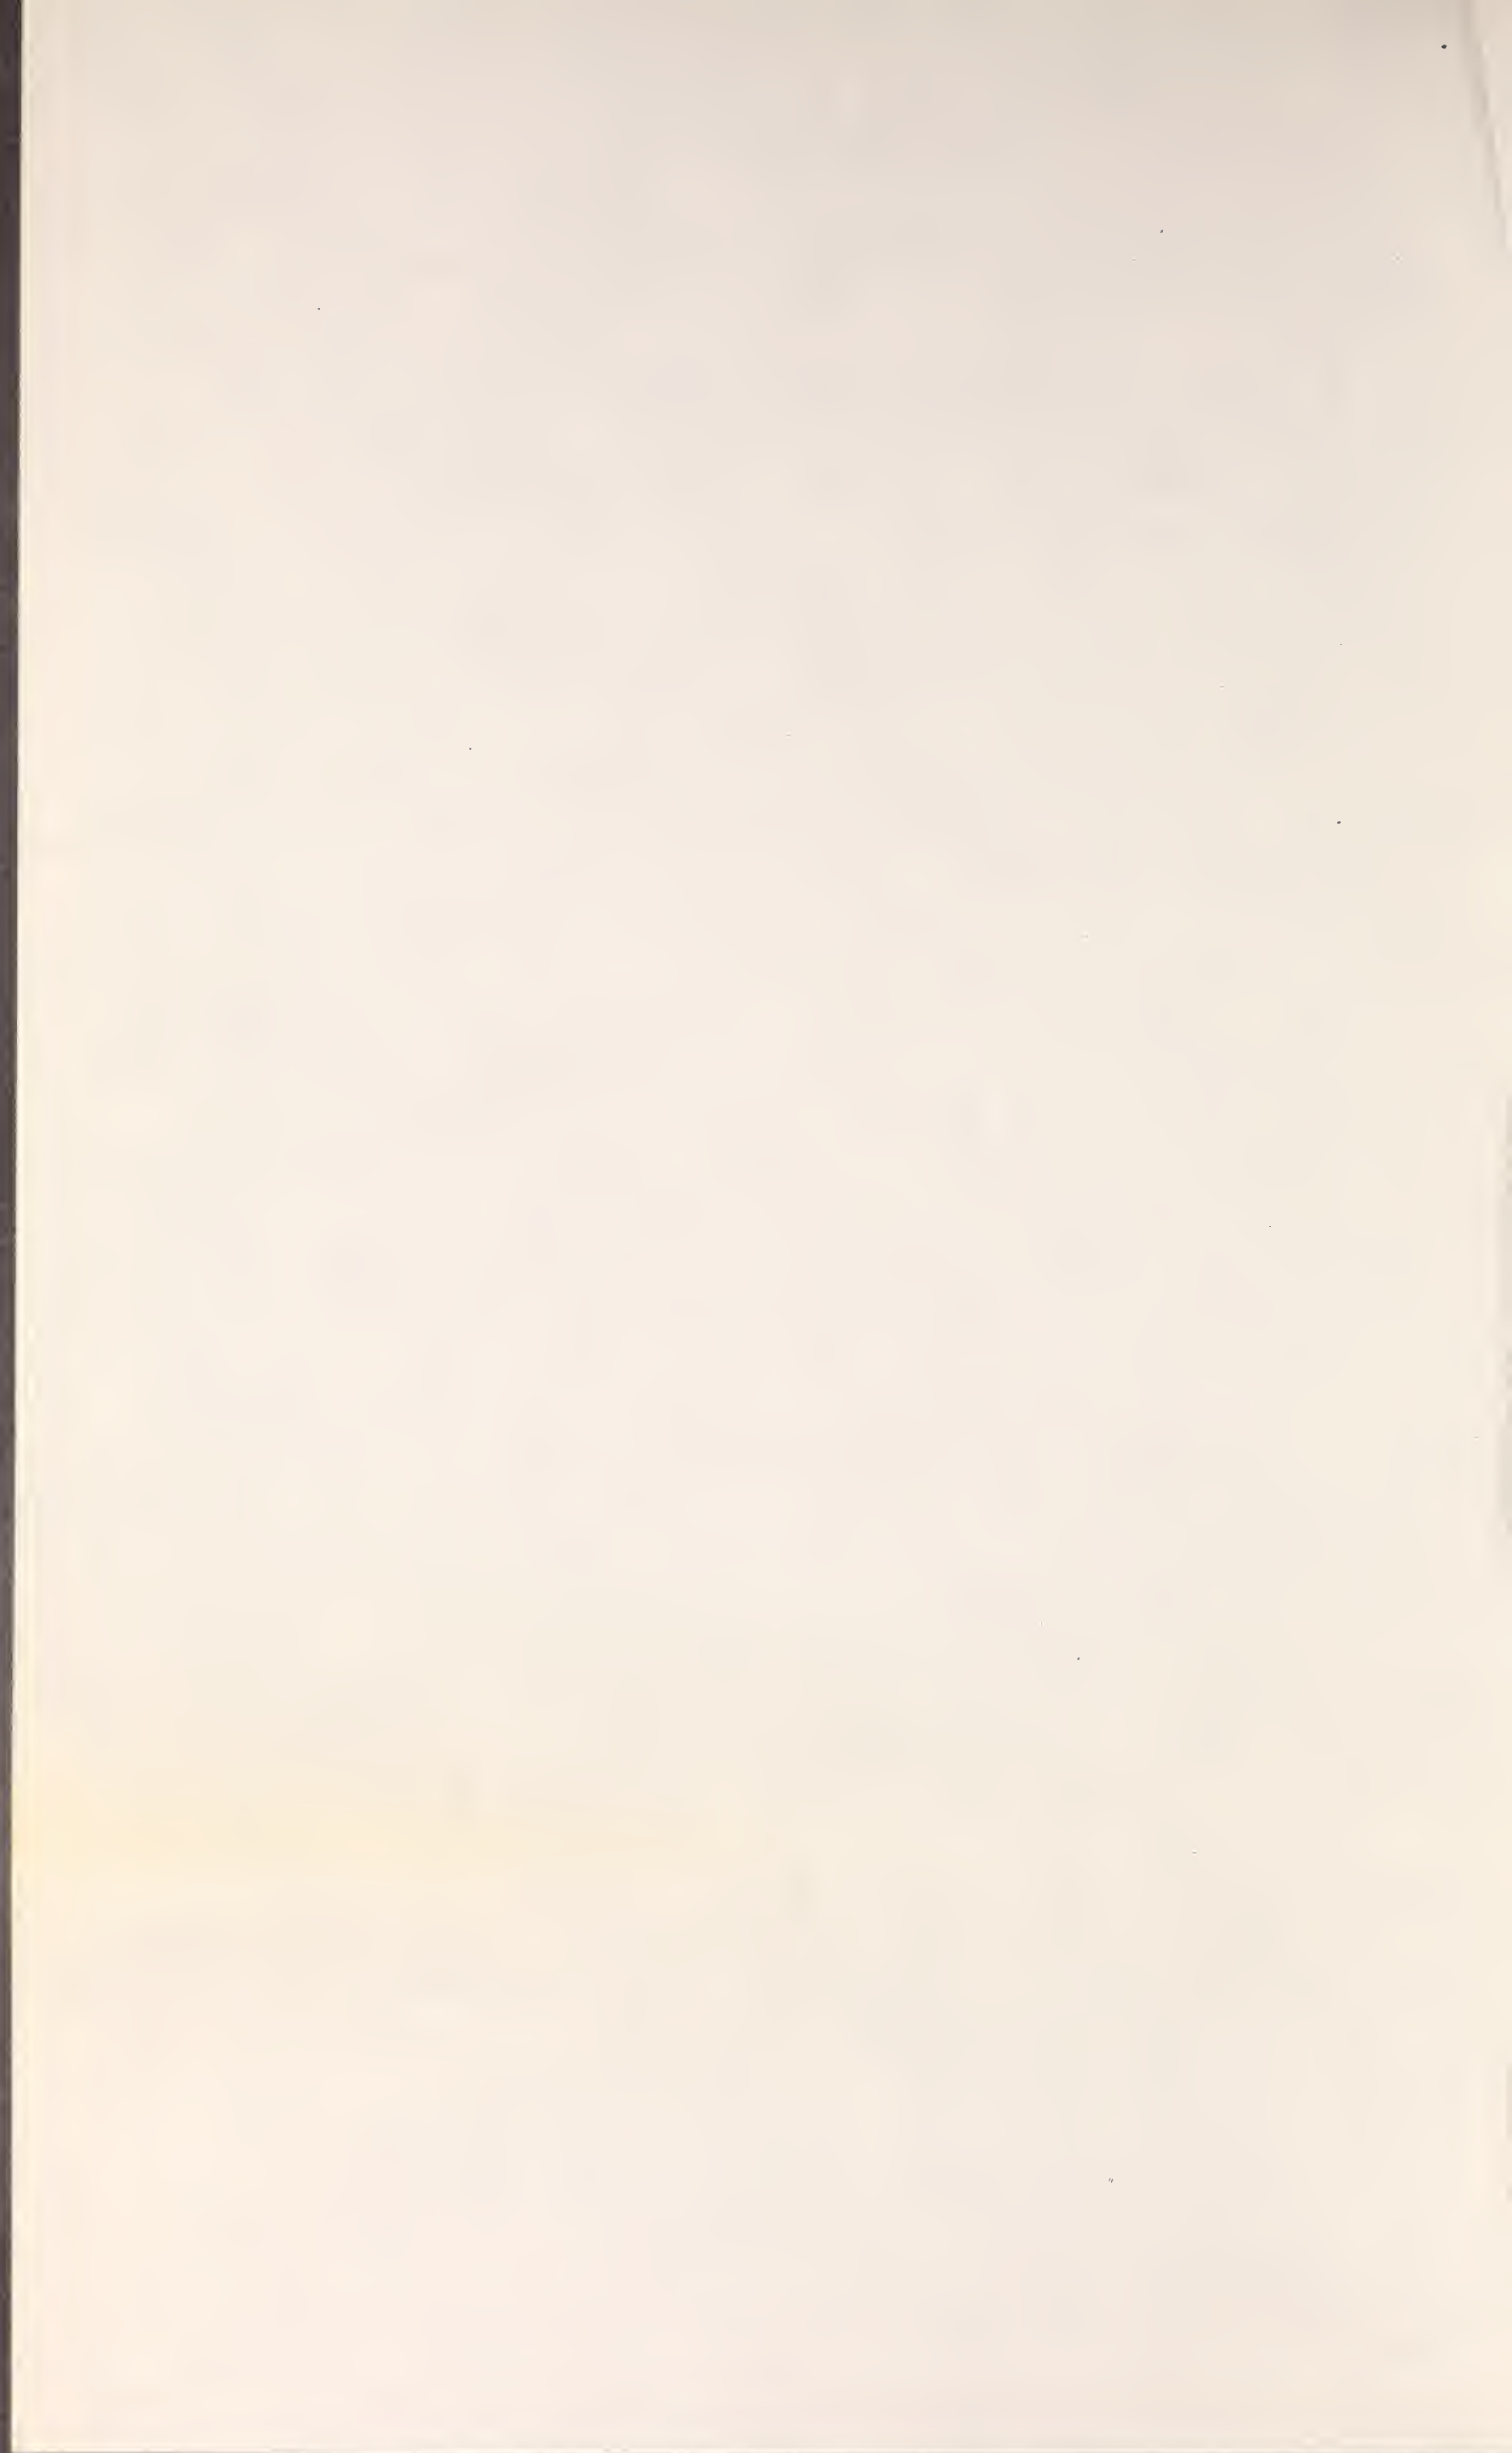

The conduct of the rebels, however, forced him prematurely into the service which would, probably, in any event have ultimately claimed him. Arrested shortly after his landing at Philadelphia, by order of the Pennsylvania Committee of Public Safety, he was submitted to the disposal of Congress. This body ordered his release on parole. His position as a half-pay officer, however, and his long identification with the royal service attracted the suspicion of the more violent Whigs, who clamoured for his re-arrest, which was ultimately decided upon. The indignity of this second arrest was treated by him as a virtual release from his parole. Consigned by the Continental Congress as a prisoner to be dealt with by the New Hampshire Assembly, he was fortunate enough to effect his escape. Received within the English lines, he was offered by the commander-in-chief, Gen. Howe, the commission of colonel in the British service, which offer he accepted.

With remarkable celerity he succeeded in raising the regiment so honourably known in the history of the revolution as the Queen's Rangers. This corps, to which very frequent reference has been made in the transactions of this Society, played, under his successor in the command, Colonel, afterwards Lieut. General, Simcoe, a conspicuous part in the war, and subsequently, in the settlement of Upper Canada. Broken in health and possibly enfeebled by a life of dissipation, a tendency to which seems to have been his real moral weakness, he retired from his command in the following winter and returned to England. The evil example of dissipation and high play set at the headquarters camp between Bedford and Amboy, in the winter of 1776-77 was not without its effect upon the morale of the army. Bancroft even attributes the failure to crush Washington at Valley Forge in the following winter, to the eager pursuit of pleasure which distinguished Howe's command.

1. Lord George Germaine, better known by his former name, Lord George Sackville, was the officer who, in command of the English cavalry at Minden, in a fit of spleen refused to charge and so marred the completeness of Prince Ferdinand's victory.

2. Johnson MSS., xxi. 233.

Meanwhile the Revolution ran its course. The singular incapacity which marked the conduct of the English arms almost throughout, was responsible for reverse after reverse. Spasmodic efforts to reinforce the army in America were made, and as the result of one of these, Robert Rogers arrived at New York in 1779 with instructions from home that he was to be again employed.

On May 1st 1779, he was commissioned by Sir Henry Clinton, Howe's successor in the command-in-chief, to raise a regiment of two battalions to be known as the King's Rangers. One battalion seems to have been destined for service in the Province of Quebec; the other for Halifax. In this regiment his brother James was gazetted major. A document in the War Office Correspondence shows that James Roger's appointment dated June 2nd, 1779, although there was a still earlier commission to the same rank dated May 1st 1778. Recruiting parties were sent out into the northern colonies, and a ship was chartered by government for the conveyance to Quebec of Major James Rogers and eleven officers¹ gazetted to the new corps. This vessel, the brigantine "Hawke," -- Capt Slaitor, -- arrived at Quebec in September 1779. The colonel, Robert Rogers, with a staff of officers, was conveyed in H.M.S. "Blond" to Penobscot. There he was present at the naval engagement in which the rebel fleet was destroyed, August 13th 1779.

Meanwhile, with the accustomed mismanagement at headquarters, no definite instructions were sent to General Haldimand, Commander-in-chief in Canada, as to the embodiment of the new corps. So early as May 24th 1779, Lord Rawdon, -- afterwards Lord Hastings, Governor-General of India, -- then acting as Adjutant-General to Clinton, wrote to Haldimand, indicating the probable appearance of Col. Robert Rogers within the latter's command. With official dread of exceeding his instructions, and fearful of provoking animosities regarding recruiting in the other corps in the province, Haldimand hesitated how to act.

Meanwhile, the numerous recruits coming in by the overland route, consigned to the King's Rangers, had to be subsisted as best they might out of the unfortunate major's own pocket. Ultimately, however, and upon his own authority, Haldimand placed the corps upon his own establishment. A scale of half-pay was arranged, and the Rangers were clothed in the regulation green uniforms of the provincial corps. From this time forward the King's Rangers garrisoned the post of St. Johns, sharing the barracks there at first with the 34th and, subsequently, with the 29th regiments of foot.²

The correspondence of James Rogers with the commander-in-chief in Canada, from 1779 to 1784, is still preserved in the British Museum, and, together with fugitive letters of Robert Rogers, fills a substantial folio volume of manuscript. The "Field Officers Letters of Rogers' King's Rangers" are in the Record Office, London, removed there from the War Office Archives. The light which these old documents throw upon the military history of the time is a

1. Most of these were from one or other of the five battalions of Gen. Skinner's brigade. Two are described as from the Queen's Rangers.
 2. The army in Canada in 1781 consisted of the following troops: The 8th, 29th, 31st, 34th, 44th, 53rd, 150 men of the 47th, a battalion of the 84th or Maclean's Highland Emigrants, Sir John Johnson's Royal Regiment, of New York, Jessup's Loyal Rangers, formerly the Loyal Americans, and Rogers' King's Rangers. In addition to the above were the German troops, consisting chiefly of Brunswickers and Hessians. General Riedesel, in a plan communicated to Clinton, about this time, for operations against the Ohio and Alleghany regions, estimates the total effective strength in Canada at 6000 men. - Max Von Eckling's Memoir of Major General Riedesel.

curious one. The chief difficulties in the administration of the corps seem to have arisen concerning the matter of recruiting and the intermingling of the accounts with those of Halifax, where the other detachment of the regiment was stationed. For the rest, James Roger's relations with his commander-in-chief are excellent. Repeated testimony to the confidence felt in his integrity at headquarters occurs in the correspondence. His long apprenticeship to warfare, his intimate knowledge of the country, and undoubted zeal for the King's service contributed to his usefulness at this frontier post. Various schemes of reconnaissance and attack were, from time to time, submitted by him for his Excellency's consideration, and approved. His advice is asked and taken. On more than one occasion he seems to have been employed, where a field officer's services were demanded, upon missions of delicacy and importance. The growing despondency as to the issue of the war is apparent as time goes on. Incredulity as to the truth of the surrender at Yorktown succeeded by consternation when the news of the disaster is confirmed. At last, in November 1783, the King's order for the disbanding of the loyalist troops arrives. It is accompanied by extracts from Lord North's letters respecting the allotment of lands to the provincial troops and refugee loyalists then in the Province of Quebec.

Throughout the winter of 1783-84, preparations are made for the move westward in the following year. In the early spring, my great-great-grandfather paid that last visit to his former home, allusion to which has been made above. His wife, a daughter of the Rev. David McGregor of Londonderry, N.H.,¹ accompanied him on his return, to renew in the northern forests that life of exile which had been the lot of her family earlier in the century. Upon his return to St. Johns, leave is asked on behalf of a number of incorporated and unincorporated loyalists, that an officer of the King's Rangers and a detachment of ten or a dozen men may go to Cataraqui to reconnoitre. A pathetic touch, betraying the ignorance and bewilderment of those distracted times, occurs, where the commanding officer notifies the commander-in-chief of a report which he had come upon "amongst our common men, that the major was going to have them taken to Cataraqui and there made slaves." Notwithstanding this alarming suggestion, confidence seems to have been restored; and most of the King's Rangers accompanied their old commander in that heroic advance into the wilderness, in search of a new home. Several of the officers remained at St. Johns, buying the ground on which their late barracks stood.

The tale of how the final allotment of the territory in the Frontenac district was made, is set out in Grass's narrative² preserved by Dr. Ryerson. Grass, the pioneer of the district, chose the first township for his followers, Kingston; Sir John Johnson, the second, Ernesttown; Col Rogers, the third, Fredericksburg; Major Vanalstine, the fourth, Adolphustown; and Col McDonnell and his company, the fifth, Marysburgh; "and so after this manner the first settlement of loyalists in Canada was made."

In the pages of Canniff's work upon the "Settlement of Upper Canada" ³ is preserved a story told by the late Dr. Armstrong, whose recollections dated back to the closing years of the eighteenth century. He remembered to have seen as a child, at my great-great-grandfather's house at Fredericksburg, a quantity of old implements of war: broken firelocks, torn uniforms, and cannonballs. Not a few relics of the soldier settlement still exist in the family, in the shape of rusty small-arms, obsolete powder-horns and flint lock pistols.

James Rogers passed away 23 September 1790. His brother Robert had died in England eight years previously, and shortly after the close of the war.¹

My great-great-grandfather was succeeded in his position in the settlement by his son, David McGregor Rogers, my great-grandfather, who, for twenty-four years, represented his district in the early House of Assembly of Upper Canada.²

A recently recovered copy of the journal of the House of Assembly for 1801, which had been lost at the sacking of York, now Toronto, in 1813, records how after the House had met and the members subscribed the oath, a message was delivered by the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod. A brief and formal speech by His Excellency followed. Then:

"David M. Rogers, Esquire, Knight representing the Counties of Hastings and Northumberland, stood up, and addressing himself to the clerk (who, standing up, pointed to him and then sat down) proposed to the House, for their speaker, the Honourable D. W. Smith, Esquire, in which motion he was seconded by the Hon. Henry Allcock, Esquire, one of the judges of the Court of King's Bench, Knight representing the counties of Durham, Simcoe and the East Riding of York." The motion was carried, the new Speaker expressing "his gratitude for the honour," and "thereupon he sat down in the chair." The House then adjourned.

David McGregor Rogers seems to have been a man of considerable force of character, uniting as he did the blood of his soldier-father with that of the Highland outlaws, which he owed to his mother, whose name he bore as part of his own. On one occasion he is said to have slain a wolf, the marauding tyrant of the district, with his oaken walking-stick. As a lad he had taken part in the migration, and upon his return to St. Johns years afterwards, he was invested with the dignity of an honorary chieftainship by the local Indians. He died at Grafton, Ontario, in 1824, while still a member of the House of Assembly.

In the foregoing attempt to tender a small act of piety to the memory of my great-great-grandfather and of justice to that of his gifted, but erratic brother, I trust that I have not too far trespassed upon your forbearance.

In the recrudescence of the spirit of imperial expansion with which we are familiar to-day, it is a not unsatisfactory reflection for us, the offspring of the loyalists, that it was for an ideal which at present animates so large a section of the Anglo-Saxon race, that our ancestors were ready, more than a century ago, to sacrifice all that seemed to make life valuable.

What that ideal was has perhaps never been better formulated than in the words of the historian Lecky: "It was the maintenance of one free industrial and pacific empire comprising the whole English race, holding the richest plains of Asia in subjection, blending all that was most venerable in an ancient civilization with the redundant energies of a youthful society, and likely in a few generations to outstrip every competitor and acquire an indisputable ascendancy in the globe."

"Such an ideal," he adds, in words which have been before now quoted before this society, "may have been a dream, but it was at least a noble one, and there were Americans who were prepared to make any personal sacrifice rather than assist in destroying it."

1 I have followed here the family tradition as to the date of Robert Roger's death. This places it in 1784. The writer of the article upon the life of Robert Rogers in the "Dictionary of National Biography" -- London, 1897 -- places it in 1800, but in this he had followed Hough who, in his turn, evidently followed Sabine in the matter. There is no trace of his having lived after 1784, and everything, including the story in his family, points to his having died soon after his return from Halifax.

 66 11 Catharine (4)(Job 3, Philip 2, Arthur 1) marr. William Rogers, and emigrated to the Western United States.
 64 7 Esther (4)(Job 3, Philip 2, Arthur 1), married Robert Perry, and died 1803.

64 Esther (4)(Job 3, Philip 2, Arthur 1) was born 1773, & marr. Robert Perry, a Methodist preacher, son of Robert & Jemima (Washburn) Perry. They were probably dwelling in Ernesttown when her early death in 1803 resulted in the dispersion of the family. It has been found impossible to obtain satisfactory details of their family history.

Children:

1. Elizabeth (5), marr. Henry Ham; dwelt in Fredericksburgh, Hamburg, Ont.
2. Robert (5), marr. Polly Sharp; dwelt on Moira Island, kept a public house, also said to have lived near Madoc, Hastings County.
3. Anna (5), was reared by her uncle, Bowen Aylsworth, marr. John Werrico. A daughter married George Darley and dwelt, perhaps, near Collingwood, Ont.
4. Nial (5), called the World's Preacher, was reared by his uncle Otho Nial Aylsworth; dwelt as is supposed at least, in southern Wisconsin or in the State of Illinois.
5. James (5), marr. Elizabeth Ward, and went to the United States in early life.
6. Esther (5), marr. Davis Hawley, whose family is supposed to live near Cloyne B. C., Ont.

65 Bowen (4)(Job 3, Philip 2, Arthur 1) was b. Feb. 27, 1778, probably in the town of Schodack, Rensselaer County, N.Y., & was 10 years of age when his parents settled in Canada. He marr. Nov. 21, 1797, Hannah, who was b. Aug. 3, 1781, dau. of Robert & Jemima (Washburn) Perry, of Ernesttown, Ont. They settled immediately on a farm 3 miles north of Bath, where they dwelt together 66 years, his death occurring upon the 66th anniversary of their wedding day, Nov. 21, 1863. She died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Lucas, in Camden.

He was a man of somewhat abrupt address, wasting few words in empty compliments, but of great equanimity of character, contented, prudent, & unostentatious, hewing square to the line of settled convictions. His religious character was in a measure no doubt moulded and stayed by the piety of his excellent wife. Within the circle of his acquaintance he was referred to as a model of industry, economy, & perseverance. About four years previous to his death a part of one of his feet was carried away by gangrene, & the part, contrary to expectation, healed & left him comparatively well again. An extended obituary notice appeared in the "Christian Guardian" of Toronto, Nov., 30, 1864, to the establishment of which paper he contributed. He also aided in the erection of Victoria College, & afterwards contributed to its endowment, & is spoken of as one of the earliest & foremost supporters of the temperance movement in Canada (damn).

Bowen & Hannah commenced housekeeping May 1, 1798, he being twenty, & she sixteen years of age. Her father, who entertained views somewhat aristocratic, was displeased with their marriage, & withheld from them for a time a father's sympathy, which, however, found expression a few years later in an endeavour to present her with an outfit of furniture, which he, without previous warning, placed at her door. She declined to receive the gift, but no doubt esteemed the generous overture as an indication of his parental approval, & accepted cheerfully her place in his affections.

She remembered the voyage up the Bay of Quinte in the small French boats & its incidents, such as the fine sight of tents pitched upon the shore (near the place where Bath was afterwards built) by a fatigue party that had preceded the main body of the settlers; the firing of the boat party in reply; the hearty cheers of both when they neared the shore, & the preparations made for their reception.

Children

(I can supply these, if you want them)

66 Catharine (4)(Job 3, Philip 2, Arthur 1) was born in 1785, & married in 1803 William Rogers, a Carpenter, of Ernesttown. They dwelt in Ernesttown a number of years & moved west, sojourning at Cobourg, Port Hope, Whitby, & Brantford, & passing beyond the knowledge of their relatives at some uncertain period, are said to have emigrated to the Western States about 1850 perhaps, & possibly to the northern part of Wisconsin.

Children:

1. Reynold.
2. Benjamin.
3. Lewis Pretz.
4. Maskell.
5. Sarah Hope.
6. Priscilla.

2. The Roman Numbers indicate the successive generations in America.

R O G E R S F A M I L Y M E M O I R S

The family is of Norman French origin. Count de-Rogier was an officer in the Army of William the Conqueror.

After settling in Britain, the name became Anglified to Rogers. Subsequently, some of the family took part in the Conquest of Ireland and settled in the north.

In the year 1740, James Rogers, born 1700, with his wife, Mary McFatridge, and eight children emigrated from Londonderry, Ireland, to America, and settled in the English Colony of New Hampshire.

As an evidence that the family were of the lineal descendants of the aforesaid, is the fact that they brought with them the family Coat of Arms inscribed on a medal, which is still in the possession of the family. They must have been in fairly good circumstances as they obtained a grant of the Township of Dunbarton, and became the first settlers therein. They seem to have inherited the military spirit of their ancestors, for as soon as opportunity offered, three sons took up arms on behalf of the mother country, and became officers of distinction.

1. James Rogers died from the effects of a gunshot wound received in the woods near his own house, being mistaken for a bear in the dusk of evening, and fired at by a party of hunters.

His sons were:

- (1. Samuel, who inherited his father's Homestead and remained a citizen of the country.
- (2. Robert, who became the famous Ranger (see No. 1.)
- (3. James, (see at Ref. No. 2.)
- (4. Richard, (" " " No. 3.)
- (5. Daniel went to sea and was drowned off Cuba. He left a wife and family at home.

Daughters:

- (1. Mary, married James Blair and remained in N.H.
- (2. Martha, married John Miller and remained in N.H.
- (3. Catherine, married Frank Miller and remained in N.H.

No. 1. Robert (11), B. in Ireland in 1724. D. 1784.

In 1755 he organised a company of Scouts or Rangers for service against the encroachments of the French and Indians on the New England Settlements. This corps developed into the celebrated "Queen's Rangers" which took an important part under his command in the seven year's war that resulted in the conquest of Canada. On the capitulation of Quebec and Montreal he was sent by General Amherst with 200 of his Rangers to take possession of Western Canada, particularly the Garrison of Detroit, which surrendered to him on the 29th of November 1760, thus ending the French rule in Canada. On their way up the Lakes, his expedition of whale boats touched at Fort Toronto where the French had formerly had a trading post by that name, the site of which is now marked by a monument at the Exhibition Grounds. He was, for some time, Governor at Macinaw, and subsequently spent some time in England where he published his Journals of the French War and also a "Concise description of the Colonies in North America, 1765. His portrait, in uniform, was placed in the British Museum in recognition of his services to the Crown.

He returned to America during the Revolution, and for some time refrained from going into active service against such men as his former Lieutenants, Stark and Putman who had become Revolutionary Generals.

However, he was by taunts and ill-usage, provoked to action, and he re-organised the Queen's Rangers, but shortly afterwards was obliged to go again to England, being succeeded in the command by Col. Simcoe, who afterwards became the first Lieut. Governor of Upper Canada.

Major Rogers did not again return to America but died, in England, 18th Nov. 1795.

No. 2. James, U.E.L. (11) Born in Ireland 1726.

An officer in Queen's Rangers till the capitulation of Montreal 1760 terminated the war. Having obtained a grant of a township in Vermont which he called Londonderry, he settled there, and in 1763 married Margaret McGregor, whose Grandfather, the Rev. James McGregor, built, and was pastor of the first Presbyterian Church in America, at Londonderry, New Hampshire.

At the outbreak of the Revolution, James Rogers raised the 84th, or King's Rangers, in support of the Royal Cause and for some time was in command of this corps at St. John, known at that time as the Key to Canada. At the capitulation of this post, after a siege of 45 days by Arnold, of the Revolutionary Army, he was paroled and thereby prevented from doing further service during the war.

The loss of the Royal Cause was to him the loss by confiscation of all his property, and he organised a band of "United Empire Loyalists" who sought out new homes in the almost unknown country to the north where they could still enjoy British protection and institutions.

At Montreal, he was joined by his family and a number of his disbanded Rangers, where they spent the winter in preparation. In the Spring of 1784, after a month's dangerous and laborious work, they surmounted the rapids of the St. Lawrence, and reached Kingston, Ont., where they had to wait some time for the completion of the surveys. At length, in July, the allotment was made and "Col. James Rogers" was given 3rd choice, his decision being the Township of Fredericksburg on the Bay of Quinte for his party. He subsequently removed to the Little Lake Hallowell, Prince Edward County. He finally returned to Fredericksburg where he died, Sept. 23rd, 1790. Issue two sons and three daughters.

No. 5.

David McGregor Rogers, U.E.L.(111) was born in Vermont in 1772. He came to Upper Canada with the U.E. Loyalists in 1784. In 1796 he was elected to represent Prince Edward County in the Legislature. In 1800 he was re-elected for the same county, and during the three succeeding Parliaments he was returned for the county of Northumberland to which he had removed. He declined to be a candidate in 1816, but was elected in 1820 and would have been elected in 1824 but he died while the election was in progress. Is buried at Grafton, St. George's Church Yard.

On the 9th January 1802 he married Sarah Playter at Toronto by whom he had two sons and two daughters.

On the death of his wife in 1810 he removed to Grafton. During the war 1812-14 he was actively engaged as a commissariat officer, his place being one of two principal depots between Kingston and Toronto. He was also registrar for the County and Postmaster.

His second wife survived him one year.

No. 6. IV James G. Rogers. Born August 4th 1805 at Brighton, Ont.

He succeeded his father in the Homestead at Grafton, and adopted the initial "G" to avoid confusion. He was an officer in Col. Coverts Northumberland Troup of Volunteer Cavalry.

A short time, 1833, previous to the Rebellion of 1837-8 he succeeded to the command of the same which he continued to hold for about 20 years. During the troublesome times above mentioned, his cavalry was engaged on active service, with head quarters at Toronto.

In February 1830 he married Maria, 3rd daughter of the Honourable Zacheus Burnham of Cobourg, by whom he had five sons and five daughters. His wife died 17th April 1856, and he married again in September 1860, Caroline Amelia Lyon at Richmond, Ont.

He maintained a leading and useful position amongst his contemporaries and died universally esteemed on the 27th November 1874.

No.7. IV. Robert David Rogers was born at Greeley's Mill near Grafton, Ont. 20th April 1809. On the partition of his father's Estate, he moved to the Township of Otonabee and commenced clearing wild land for farming operations in 1834. On the breaking out of the Rebellion 5th December 1837, he joined Capt. Warren's Volunteer Company at Cobourg and marched with that corps to Waterloo on the Niagara Frontier. He took a leading part in capturing and destroying the steamer "Caroline" which was being used by McKenzie and his fellow insurgents in strengthening their position on Navy Island. He was the last to leave the burning vessel as it approached its final lean over the great cataract.

On the 12th March 1840 he married Elizabeth the eldest daughter of Richard Birdsall, P.L.S. of Asphodel, Rice Lake. In December 1842 he removed to the vicinity of Peterboro and commenced the settlement of what is now the village of Ashburnham where he built extensive Flour and Saw Mills and carried on a successful mercantile business for many years. He took an extensive part in municipal affairs and was more than once Warden of the County of Peterboro.

In 1863 he organised a Volunteer Company which was called to active service during the Fenian Raids and ultimately relinquished the command to his eldest son. His wife died on the 20th Sept. 1875. Their family was composed of 5 sons and 4 daughters. On the 20th March 1878 he was married again to Ann Wilmot Rogers at Colborne, Ont. She died 22nd Oct. the same year.

Barnett Relationship.

John Barnett, Scotch-Irish, who fought at the Siege of Londonderry, died at Londonderry, N. H., of Oct. 8, 1740, aged 86.

Samuel Barnett, his grandson, was one of the first settlers of Newbury, Vt. He and several brothers, including John, served in Revolutionary forces in the revolution. John was shot from concealment during this war at the site of Richmond, Vt.

Amy, sister
Samuel's wife was ~~daughter of Hugh Miller and niece~~ of Major Robert Rogers. His children include:

1. Samuel Jr., one of Washington's Guards, as was his brother, Benjamin, had long service during the Revolution. In 1814, at the age of 67, he, with other elderly men, helped form and served with the 'Silver Greys.' He was present at the battles of Stillwater, Saratoga and Monmouth, N.J. He was evidently born in 1747.
2. Capt. Benjamin, 10 years younger than Samuel, born in 1757, married a daughter of Hugh Miller and niece of Major Robert Rogers. His eldest son, John Barnett, married Mary, daughter of Colonel Henry Ruiter, (U.E.)
son, David Barnett.

His son, Charles Woods Barnett.

His only son, Edgar C. Barnett, lives on lot 5, range 4 of Potton.

Benjamin settled on the Miltimore Place, near Miltimore school house.

David Barnett was in the service of the Government, as was his brother, John. in 1837.

ST. FRANCIS INDIANS.

The central metropolis of the Abenakis Indians was situated on the St. Lawrence River, at the mouth of the St. Francis. This was midway between Montreal and Quebec. Strong in numbers. Allies of the French. Here was planned expedition after expedition against New Englanders. Here was a place of refuge for outlawed savages from the English country.

In 1759 General Amherst ordered the destruction of the Indian village of St. Francis. Major Rogers, a daring Indian fighter was selected for the purpose, with two hundred of his famous Rangers. Starting from Crown Point, they passed down Lake Champlain to Missisquoi Bay, and there left their boats in charge of two Indians, who were to remain until the party returned, unless the enemy discovered the boats; in such case the guard was to follow and inform Rogers of the fact.

Major Rogers' party consisted of but 142, when on the 23rd of September they left the Bay, and struck boldly into the wilderness. On the 25th they were overtaken by the Indians who had been left in charge of the boats, stating that the enemy had discovered the boats and were in pursuit. There was no alternative but to push on, outmarch the pursuers, destroy the fated village, return by Lake Memphramagog and the Connecticut, and thus accomplish their object, and elude their pursuers.

Lieutenant McMillen was sent back across the country to Crown Point to inform General Amherst of their situation, that he might order provisions to be sent by the Connecticut River and the Lower Coos. The tenth day they reached a point fifteen miles from the doomed town. The place was reconnoitred by Major Rogers and two of his officers on the 6th of October, and the Indians discovered to be in the greatest glee, celebrating a wedding. Rogers returned to his party, and at three o'clock the next morning the Rangers advanced to within four hundred yards of the village. Before sunrise the attack was made in three divisions. The surprise was so complete that the Indians had no time to rally, advance or escape. Two hundred were killed on the spot, twenty of their women and children taken prisoners. Daylight revealed to the victors more than six hundred scalps of all sizes, sexes and ages, floating from the lodge poles of the wigwams. The houses were all burnt except three, and it was supposed many Indians.

Roll call revealed one man of Rogers' company killed and several wounded. They then commenced the march for the Connecticut River. After eight days food failed, on the banks of Lake Memphramagog, and they divided up into several parties, the better to obtain game. Rogers took one party with him by Magog Lake and the Passumpsic River. Soon engagements with pursuing Indians are stated to have taken place. Many died from hunger. It is believed that some of them even ate human flesh. Months passed before the scattered company was united at Crown Point. Fifty were reported as lost. From this time the St. Francis Indians were ~~scattered~~ in scattered bands, Rogers' Rangers had humbled and the war had made them British subjects. With silence and sorrow they permitted new coming whites to live among them.

There was a close family connection with the family of Major Rogers and the Barnets and Millers who settled in Potton and Sutton. Hugh Miller, whose wife was a sister of Major Rogers, was the first settler in Richford near to Sutton on Stanhope flats. Samuel Barnet, father of Captain B. Barnet, married another sister of Major Robert Rogers, the celebrated Ranger, and his son Captain Benjamin Barnet married Mary Miller, his cousin, daughter of Hugh Miller, and settled on what is now the Wm. Miltimore farm in Glen Sutton.

Theophilus Hastings also lived on a part of this Miltimore farm, and he married another niece of Major Rogers, Catherine, daughter of Hugh Miller. Theophilus died early, leaving a family of small children. He died from nose bleeding.

The first sermon preached in the Town of Richford was in Hugh Miller's house, by Bishop Hedding.

Capt. J. A. C. Rogers,
Box 51,
Picton, Ont.

Dear Jack:

Herewith my suggested wording for the plaque re James Rogers. I feel that it is an improvement over that furnished by the Department. You will also find reasons for change, and I am confident that they are very near the truth, which is what should be recorded on imperishable metal.

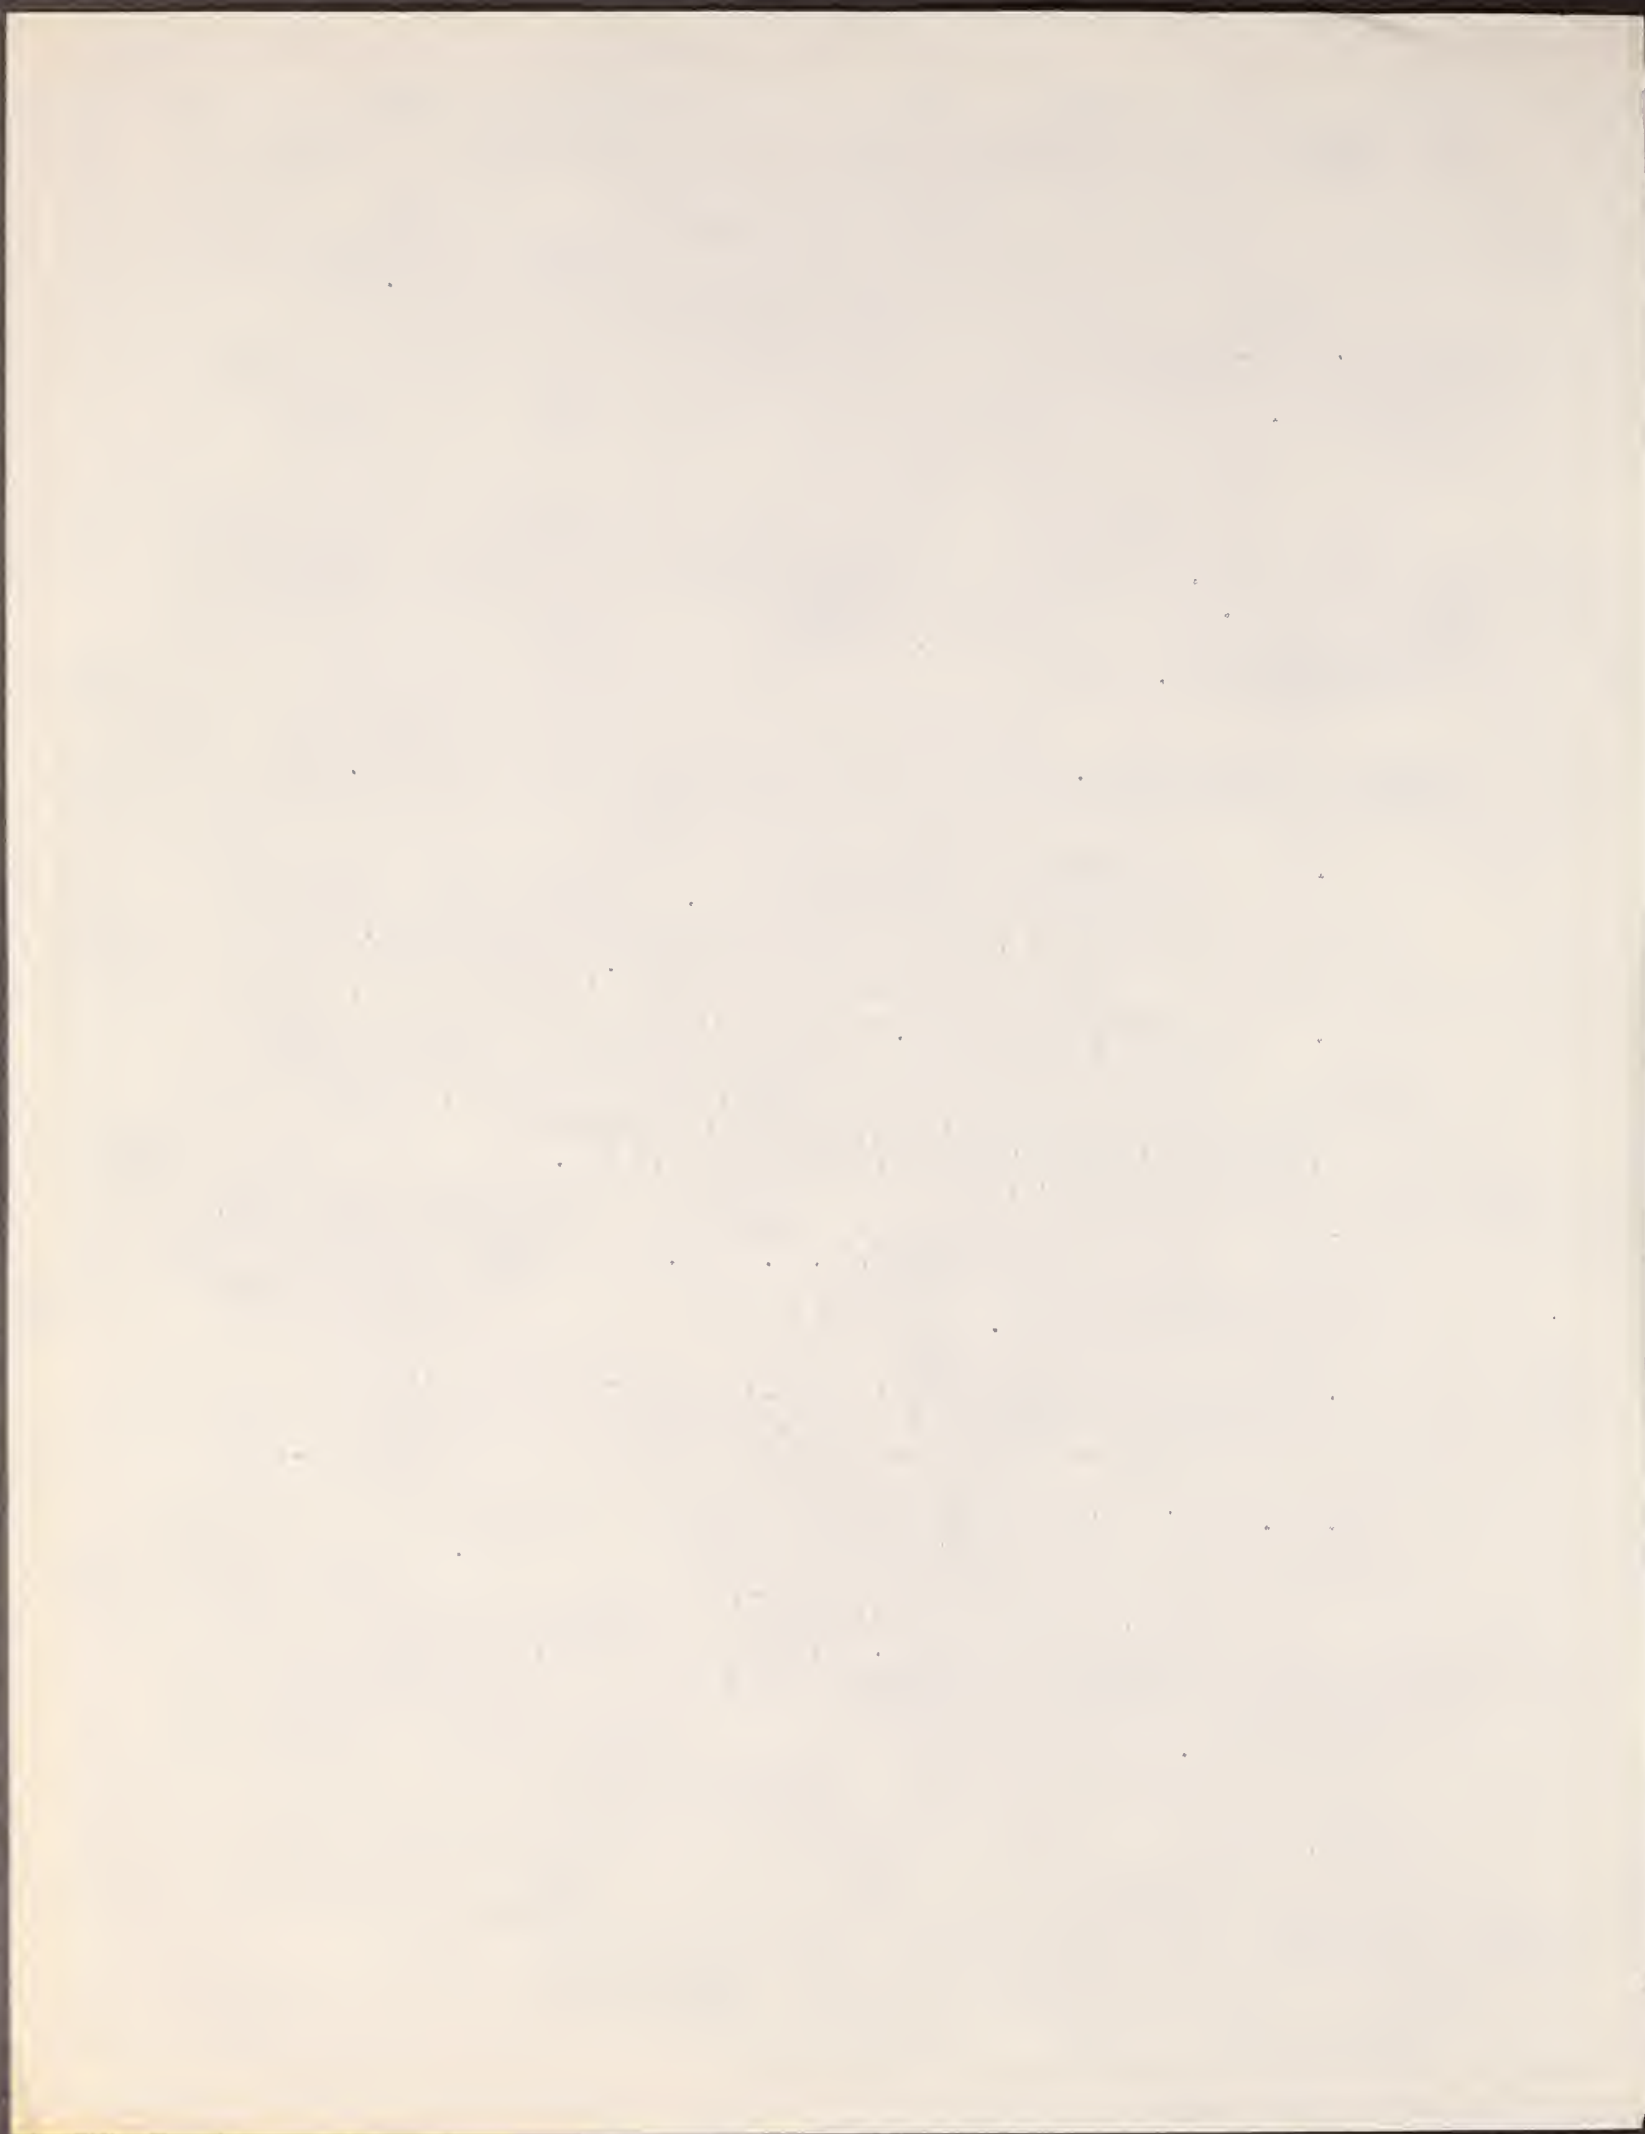

I am somewhat perturbed as to the proposed location of this plaque. I feel that it ought to be set up at Conway. I say this for several reasons:

1. There is nothing on the inscription to indicate where the Loyalists landed, which is as it should be. Actually, as long as it is set up in Fredericksburgh, the site is not important. This will be explained in subsequent notes.
2. I have contended to Prof. Stanley on several occasions that there should be plaques (just as there is at Dolphinstown) to mark the landing places of the several groups of Loyalists--one at Fort Frontenac; one at a point just west of Bath; and another at the landing site at Sandhurst.
3. The plaque at Sandhurst should record the landing place of the King's Rangers and the 2nd K. R. R. N. Y. This plaque could also note that this was the portage to Ray Bay, used by the Indians for centuries.
4. This same spot should have a plaque to Samuel Sherwood's Store, the first on the Bay of Quinte, seeing that his store sat on the Bay shore about 200 yards west of the creek at Sandhurst.
5. St. Paul's Church, built in 1791 or 2, should also be marked. Indeed, McDowall's Church might also be marked.

From the above it will be seen that Sandhurst could quite properly receive four plaques. So, for this reason, why put James Rogers' plaque there too? I hope that you can see reason in this attitude. It would be embarrassing to have too many plaques in one spot, with other areas left blank.

I hope that my comments meet with your approval.

Sincerely,

Rogers Family Honored At Bicentennial Of New Hampshire Town

"And to this wild and hilly land came two pioneers, Rogers and Putney. The year was 1739".

So read two lines from Marion C. Zeller's poem about the New Hampshire town of Dunbarton which celebrated its bicentennial early this month. Before the town was actually incorporated as such, however, it was known as Starktown and before that Monticoma, the Irish district from whence came its first settler, James Rogers.

The commemoration of Rogers' settlement was an integral part of the town's three day bicentennial celebration. A bronze plaque was unveiled at what is believed to be the site of Rogers second home in the Great Meadows near Dunbarton Centre. His first home had been destroyed by an Indian raid.

Unveiling the plaque was a great, great, great grand-son of James Rogers, Capt. J. A. C. Rogers of Picton. He and his wife Ida (who cut the town's bicentennial birthday cake) were guests of the Dunbarton Historical Society for the August 6, 7, 8th celebration. They stayed at the E. N. Noyes' farmstead which encompasses part of the original Rogers settlement.

To New Englanders the name Rogers calls to mind that famous colonial frontiersman Robert Rogers organizer of Rogers' Rangers, a company of scouts for service against the encroachments of the French and Indians on the early English settlements in the New World. Robert was one of eight children fathered by Dunbarton's first settler James Rogers.

Robert's brother James was responsible for the establishment of the Rogers family in Canada. At the outbreak of the Revolution he raised the 84th or Kings Rangers, but fighting in a losing cause he eventually led a band of U. E. Loyalists to the shores of the Bay of Quinte at Fredericksburg Township. A plaque is erected to his memory at Sandhurst. His son David McGregor Rogers represented Prince Edward County in the legislature for two terms. His grandson Robert David was more than once warden of Peterborough County and his great grandson Richard Birdall Rogers designed the famous Littlelocks at Peterborough. His great great grandson was George Norman Rogers father of Capt. J. A. C. (Jack) Rogers.

Jack Rogers is well acquainted with his family's history but had never been to the New Hampshire town of Dunbarton and was unaware that the James Rogers cellar site had been preserved and marked for recognition in 1965. It was through Prof. W. G. Stinson of Kingston that the town of Dunbarton and Jack Rogers got together. An invitation to participate in the town's 200th anniversary was extended to the Rogers' after Prof. Stinson happened to visit Dunbarton and mentioned that his friend Jack Rogers was a descendant of the town's founding father.

"Attending the celebration was one of the most thrilling moments of my life," said the historically conscious Jack Rogers on his return to Prince Edward. The celebration featured a 90-minute parade with five bands and various floats depicting events in Dunbarton's history. One float held a replica of James Rogers' log cabin. On the same program was an 18 scene pageant entitled "Dunbarton — A Vision Recalled".

Bicentennial speakers included New Hampshire governor John King and the provost of Dunbarton, Scotland, John Campbell.

In his own remarks Mr. Rogers praised the wonderful hospitality and great enthusiasm of the people of Dunbarton. He hoped that

SPECIAL SERVICE AT HAY BAY CHURCH SUNDAY

The Annual Pilgrimage Service of the Hay Bay Church will be held at Adolphustown on Sunday, August 29th, at 3 o'clock.

The guest speaker will be the Rev. Ernest E. Long, secretary of the General Council of the United Church, Toronto.

The Rev. Harold M. Neal, D.D., Chairman of the Board of Trustees, will take part.

His Honor Judge Gerald Smith of Napanee, will act as Precentor in the Service of Praise.

Bridge St. choir of Belleville will assist in the service and will contribute an anthem.

Make Survey On Pollution County Waters

A survey of waters surrounding Prince Edward County to determine the degree and effects of pollution is currently being made by the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

Quinte's Isle Tourist Association, which felt pollution has affected fishing, made the original request and received support from commercial fishermen and County Council.

"We are pleased to learn that something is finally being done — it is a most important matter," said Wm. Smith, president of Q. I.T.A.

AOTS Convention

The fourth national convention of the United Church AOTS Men's Clubs opens in Kingston on Friday. It will be the first time that this Canada-wide group has met in Ontario. Held at Queen's University, it is expected that between 400 and 450 persons will be in attendance until August 29.

Theme is "Foundation for Christian Service". Special speaker is Rev. Rex Rolan, United Theological College, Montreal. U.C. Moderator, Dr. E. M. Howse, Toronto, speaks at Saturday night banquet.

The Ontario Safety League quotes this epitaph: "He wanted to race the train to the crossing. It was a dead heat."

Some of his family could be present for the town's 250th anniversary.

The American branch of the Rogers family was represented at the plaque unveiling by Mrs. Allan Brown of Sarasota, Fla.

Concord, N.H., judge J. C. Matson was responsible for the composition of the plaque inscription.

Stands On Roadside Bring Some Complaints

Prince Edward County Warden Bernard Hepburn told Chamber of Commerce directors Thursday he is going to bring up the matter of roadside stands to County Council.

He said he has nothing against farmers who are selling their own produce, but a number of incidents have come to his attention where farm roadside stands are buying fruits and vegetables wholesale and reselling them.

"These people pay no licence fees of any kind," he said, "and they hurt properly established merchants."

Still another complaint the Warden has received is some of the stands are selling produce at higher prices than the stores in town.

This leaves a bad taste in the mouths of tourists, he said. They stop in the country to buy some fresh corn or eggs, then when they come into town they find they could have bought the same thing five or ten cents cheaper.

He said it is likely that some definite restrictions will be placed on roadside operations by the County Council.

O.A.S. ACTION

DRDUGHT ASSISTANCE

Drought Assistance application forms have now been mailed to all farmers in Prince Edward County and those who qualify and would like to apply for assistance are reminded to complete the forms and return them to the Ontario Dept. of Agriculture, Box 470, Picton, by September 1st. Anyone who may not have received a copy of the application form is advised to apply at the Dept. of Agriculture office in Picton.

FARMSTEAD IMPROVEMENT COMPETITION

Farmers wishing to participate in the Farmstead Improvement Centennial Competition are urged to send their applications to the Ontario Dept. of Agriculture, Box 470, Picton, without delay. Consideration is now being given to establishing the prize list either on the basis of the divisions on the score sheet or on a Township basis. This matter was discussed at a recent meeting of Project Committee and it was the general feeling among those in attendance that the divisions in the score sheet might be preferable for this purpose. This would make it possible for competitors to place special emphasis on the house, barn, yard or entrance to the farm as they see fit. Pictures of the area to be improved should be taken before any work on the project is started.

BELLEVEILLE JR. FAIR

Forty-eight Prince Edward 4-H agricultural club members made an excellent showing at the Livestock and Crops Judging Day held August 18th at Belleville Fair. The Northern Electric Special awarded to the high boy and the high girl in the general Agricultural Competition, went to Helen Whitehead, R.R. 1 Bloomfield, and John Thompson, R.A. 2 Picton.

The Warden's Trophy was won by Anne Springlins, R.R. 2 Bloomfield, and the C.N.E. Shield won by Debbie Motley, R.R. 7 Belleville.

4-H TRACTOR MAINTENANCE CLUB MEETING

The next regular meeting of the 4-H Tractor Maintenance Club will be held on Thursday, August 26th, in the Dept. of Agriculture Board Room, Picton, at 8:00 p.m.

MILFORD AND DISTRICT 4-H CALF CLUB

The Milford and District 4-H Calf Club will hold its next meeting on Friday, August 27th, at 8:00 p.m. at the farm of Gilbert Whiteford, R.R. 3, Picton.

IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. George Kitchen, who was visiting her son, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kitchen in Gravenhurst, suffered a heart attack and was confined to South Memorial Bracebridge Hospital. Mrs. Kitchen is now a patient in Belleville General Hospital for a time. Friends wish her a speedy recovery.

LIKE A TORCH

Grandmother of the child, Mrs. Godfrey Bradley, who also resides in the home, said "the children were playing behind the barn. All of a sudden we heard yells. Lenore came running and her blazing clothes were like a torch. Her mother tore the clothing from her and suffered a severe burn on the hand and less severe on the leg."

"We were very fortunate," she added, "in that Jack Jones of Picton office, Ontario Hydro, was at the house reading the meter. At his suggestion, I grabbed a blanket and threw it around the child. Mr. Jones was a wonderful help and rushed mother and child in his truck to Belleville Hospital. She was then taken to Toronto by ambulance, and doctors say she stood the trip unusually well. It is expected she will be in hospital here for some weeks."

Bloomfield Wins In Tenth First Game of B. D. Finals Second Game Here Tonight

A ten-inning 2-1 victory for Bloomfield Monday night at Belleville gave the village crew a one game lead over their city cousins, the Ellis Jrs., in the fight for the Belleville and District League playoff championship and the Bill Ott trophy. Second game in this final series is being played in Picton at the Q. E. diamond on Wednesday night, August 25 (tonight).

Monday's game was about as even as any game could be. Both clubs collected four hits and both pitchers struck out 16 batters.

Errors spelled Belleville's downfall. Losing pitcher, Bud Ethier's own misdeed in the tenth cost him the game. After getting Jim Guernsey on a strikeout to start the inning, he bobbled Lockwood's trickler, walked MacDonald and then was nicked for a single over 1st base by Leo St. Denis. The hit scored Lockwood with what proved to be the winning run as Bloomfield hurler Ken Demille set the Juniors down in order in the last of the tenth.

Demille allowed Belleville's only tally in the eighth, Don Gardner scoring on his double and an error at the plate.

Bloomfield got the lead run in the sixth, as Ron Weese doubled and scored on Carl Stacey's fly ball.

FOUR HURT IN COLLISION

Four persons were hospitalized on Monday as a result of a head-on collision which occurred on Highway 14 at Mountain View.

LAC William Mason, RCAF Station, Trenton, driver of an air force vehicle, is in Belleville hospital suffering with a broken leg, possible head injuries and severe cuts.

Driver of the car was John Cairns who lives in the Mountain View area and is employed at M. View RCAF depot. His daughter-in-law, Mrs. Alfred Cairns, and young son, John, had driven to the depot to pick him up and take him home for lunch.

Mrs. Cairns is in Belleville hospital where her condition was reported yesterday as serious but not critical. She suffered severe cuts, abrasion and shock.

Mr. Cairns is also in Belleville hospital in fair condition.

John Cairns was brought to the County Hospital in Picton where his condition is reported as good.

The RCAF vehicle is believed to have struck loose gravel, causing it to swerve across the road into the path of the Cairns car.

OFP Constable Sisty, Picton, is investigating.

FARMSTEAD IMPROVEMENT

Entries for the Farmstead Improvement Competition should be sent to the Agricultural Office, Picton, before next Wednesday. Coupon in Gazette may be used or telephone.

There are many fine prizes running into hundreds of dollars offered as an incentive.

Visits are made to farms entered by an independent judge in September. A year later a second visit is made and improvements noted. It is stressed that work need not be done now but any time within the year and it need not be costly.

Work can include any painting, fence repairs or removal, tree planting, driveways, removal of brush, any remodelling — in fact anything which improves the appearance of the farm, home and surroundings.

Government grants are based on the number of entries — so all possible are desired.

Farmers, or their wives, are urged to telephone the Agricultural office and make an entry — there is no entry fee. Idea is to beautify the county and province in preparation for Centennial year.

NO ROD OR REEL GETS FINE BASS

Normally considered a crafty game fish, a large smallmouth bass was easy prey for Picton photographer Lloyd Thompson last week. Visiting the littlelocks at Peterborough, Lloyd spotted a fish caught by the lock on a steel girder. He ran out and picked it up. It weighed close to four pounds.

Former Picton Boy Will Graduate In Michigan

RONALD H. MONROE

HOUGHTON, Michigan — Ronald H. Monroe of Welland will be among the 99 candidates for 101 degrees to be conferred here Aug. 25 at Michigan Technological University's fourth summer commencement.

Ronald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Monroe, 255 Deere St., will be a candidate for a Bachelor of Science degree in business administration. He is a 1956 graduate of Welland High School and attended Provincial Institute of Mining in Halesbury before transferring to Michigan Tech. At Tech he has been active in the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical and Petroleum Engineers, the Michigan Tech Business Club and intramural basketball and softball. He is married to the former Joan Marilyn Dimesen of Halesbury, Ontario, and after graduation plans to work for the Howell Company, St. Charles, Illinois, as a management trainee.

Ron is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Turpin, Picton.

Legion Bantams Win Pt. Perry Here Saturday

Picton Legion Bantams eliminated Westwood 12-7 in the third game of their playoffs.

They now meet Port Perry in Port Perry Wednesday night (tonight) at 8:15. Return game is Saturday night at Q.E. diamond in Picton. Game time and further particulars will be in Friday's paper.

Fans are urged to turn out and support this fine team.

Motor to B.C.

James Bond received the habit of the Redemptorist Order at the Investiture, $5th Sunday, August 21, at St. Gerard's Novitiate, Keswick, Ontario. His mother, Mrs. Bernadine Bond, and sister, Mickey Bond, R.N.A., attended the ceremonies.

Former Teacher, Nurse Edith Mallory Passes

Miss Edith Mallory died at the home of her nephew, John Mallory, Bloomfield Road, on Wednesday, August 11, 1965, in her 97th year. Born in Fredericksburg Township in 1869, she moved with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Mallory, to East Lake in 1870. In 1891, her parents purchased the present Mallory home on Bloomfield Road. After teaching public school in Prince Edward County for a few years, she trained and graduated as a nurse from Mount Sinai Hospital, New York. Her vocation took her to California in 1908. She retired there in 1916 and continued living in South Pasadena until 1962, when she sold her home and came to live with her nephew at Bloomfield.

She was a member of the Universalist Church and, besides being active in church organizations

Hull Brothers Steal Show From Cattle

Ralph Richards and Bobby Hull showed their Herefords at Belleville Fair, but it was a toss-up which was the greater attraction for visitors, the sleek animals or the hockey star. Clad in work clothes, Bobby was aided by brother Dennis Hull, in grooming the animals.

At the beef sale, held on the final day, Hull received a request from a Montreal packer to offer some beef animals in the show which they planned to purchase as "prestige" beef. Richards and Hull obliged by consigning three animals to the sale and it gave a big boost to the event.

The Hull brothers keep fit for the hockey season by working with Ralph Richards on the farm near Demorestville. In spite of their success and fame, both are extremely modest and friendly.

Hull and Richards carried off the grand championship bull award among other prizes for Herefords. They plan to exhibit at the County Fair in Picton, September 23-24-25.

THREE ACCIDENTS NO ONE HURT

Three minor accidents on Sunday were reported by Ontario Provincial Police. All three accidents involved only one car and the drivers suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

A car driven by Carol Clonson of Picton ended up in a ditch on County Road 1 — the town line road from Wellington to Rednersville. In the second accident, a car driven by Brian McCruden of Napanee rolled over on County Road 18, near the Outlet, and in the third, Gerry Paine of Wheatley rolled his car on the South Bay Road, four miles south of Milford.

WILL PLAY FOR GOLF TITLE

Ralph Hartlen and Louie Garrison Jr. will play a 36 hole match this Sunday for the men's championship of the Picton Golf and Country Club.

In the semi-finals, Hartlen, a former Army Postal Corps champion, eliminated veteran Pierce Jones while Garrison topped Reg. Johnson.

THE UPPER ROOM

Yet here am I among you like a servant. — Luke 22:27 (N.E.B.) During Jesus' last week, he instituted the Holy Communion for his disciples. Through it they were to remember Him and realize their oneness with Him and with one another.

Soon after the feast, the disciples began to quarrel among themselves over the question of status and position. Jesus patiently explained that true greatness lies in service. Although He was their Lord and Master, He Himself was among them as a servant.

When we follow Jesus, we cannot fail to influence the non-Christian. During his student days, a former Burmese Buddhist cabinet minister was impressed by the spirit of service of the Christian staff of a Christian college he attended. He devoted himself to the service of youth and publicly acknowledged his debt to his Christian teachers for inspiration that led to service.

Are we Christians seeking for authority over others? Or are we, like our Lord, trying to be as servants among men?

Prayer: O God, we thank Thee for Jesus in whom we see that the way to greatness is through loving service to our fellowmen. Kindle in us the desire to follow in His path of sacrificial service. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Thought for the Day: To be disciples of Jesus, we must follow men. — U Hla Bu, Burmese Edition (Burmese).

By R. E. WHITFIELD

(Department Lands and Forests) Scuba divers throughout the district who venture into the depths of our local lakes see much of the activities of the various fish species in their natural habitat.

Many interesting instances concerning the congregating of fish at certain levels in lakes, schooling movements, etcetera, have been reported by divers from time to time.

Undoubtedly scuba divers collectively have gained a wealth of knowledge concerning fish life in lakes that could be most useful to fisheries management personnel, and helpful to anglers.

A Deseronto diver, Jim Graham, recently reported an unusual instance when diving in one of our local pickered lakes. Mr. Graham when at a depth of about 18-20 feet noticed a spinner moving about in the water and first thought an angler was at the surface controlling the lure, but on further observation found that the lure was being towed about by none other than an 18-inch long pickered. Apparently the pickered had swallowed the spinner. The unfortunate angler must have broken his leader line leaving the lure with his quarry. We wonder how long the pickered towing the lure would be hooking a mate.

The same diver when in Mazinaw Lake, just south of the narrows, reported 70 or more pickered at a depth of 15-18 feet along the edge of the current which flows south through the narrows at Bon Echo Rock. These fish were close to the bottom that falls away steeply from the main shoreline.

EELS ALONG LAKE

An interesting account of eels along the Prince Edward shoreline where Highway 33 approaches the lake at Wellington Bay was reported by Mr. Graham. Here there were more than 30 eels seen in an area 200 x 100 feet. The eels were partially hidden by the broken rock at a depth of 15 feet with their heads and part of the body showing. When approached the eels withdrew themselves from sight among the rocks.

The Department appreciates receiving authentic information from divers who go below the surface of our local lakes, on fish and other aquatic life.

Aside from the sport of diving much useful information can be gained by the ever increasing population of scuba divers.

Occasionally, but only occasionally, a person in a car is "thrown clear" and escapes serious injury. But these cases are the exception that prove the rule. It is much safer to remain in a car than to be ejected in a collision. Here are the actual statistics: 12.8% of persons thrown out of accident cars are killed; only 2.8% of those remaining in the vehicles are fatally injured. Moral—Always wear your seat belt.

REPORTS GIVEN ROTARY CLUB

Rotary president Victor Allard thanked members for splendid cooperation at the Club's Market Square dance during Picton's Lay-alist days. Over 90 per cent of members assisted in some way, he said. Al Anderson told that 250 persons had enjoyed the event.

Dr. H. F. (Dick) Evans told his audience at this Tuesday noon luncheon that volunteers are needed to drive their cars for Rotary's Annual Peanut Drive. This is scheduled for the area outside Picton on Tuesday, September 14th, with a canvass of the town the next night.

Last Tuesday, the Club was privileged to hear an address by Mr. Justice Edson L. Haines, whose topic was "Teen-age Culture". A summary of his remarks appears in a later issue.

The guest speaker was introduced by Sheriff Herbert J. Collier, and he was cordially thanked by Warden Barry Hepburn, who remarked that observations by the speaker are helpful to parents of teenage children.

When he introduced Mr. Justice Haines, Sheriff Collier reminded Rotarians that the speaker was a permanent resident. In 1917, he built a summer cottage at Merland Park. Since he liked this area and his reception here, Edson Haines built a permanent residence along the Bay of Quinte shore near Picton, Sheriff Collier remarked.

The introducer told that Justice Haines was called to the Bar in 1930, appointed Queen's Counsel in 1942, and was a Bencher of the Law Society from 1951 until he was appointed as a Supreme Court Judge in 1962. Herb Collier told that this new Pictonian has held many important posts, being a former Dean of the International Academy of Trial Lawyers; the only Canadian member of the American Law Institute; the former professor of Trial Procedure of the University of Toronto Law Association. He was chairman of the medical-legal committee of the Canadian Bar Association. As senior member of the Haines legal firm of Toronto, he achieved an outstanding reputation in Canada for his professional services in automobile litigation, Herbert Collier remarked.

Len Pearo, Salvation Army captain was pinch-hitter as Sgt. Arms last Tuesday, and members sang two numbers during luncheon hour.

Asks Revision Calculating Of Average Price

Ontario Agriculture Minister William Stewart has strongly urged the Ottawa Government to revise the basis of calculating the national average price of manufacturing milk.

"The Federal dairy policy discriminates against the shippers of bulk milk," Mr. Stewart said. "The national dairy policy as announced, in calculating the national average price for milk includes patronage dividends from co-operatives and quality and bulk tank premiums," Mr. Stewart explained.

"The inclusion of these premiums or patronage dividends is unfair to bulk tank shippers and to shippers to co-operatives. The effect of this national price policy is to penalize many producers who have made substantial financial commitments in bulk tanks and other facilities."

"I have talked to Mr. Hays about this and strongly urged him to reconsider the basis of determining the national average manufacturing price of milk for the dairy year of 1965 by excluding co-operative patronage dividends, quality and bulk tank premiums."

Both Leaders Are On Tour

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson will deliver at least eight addresses in an 11-day trip out of the capital which will include six days in British Columbia and Alberta.

His schedule, made public here, also calls for him to participate in the Vancouver Sun salmon fishing derby.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearson flew to Toronto Thursday morning for private engagements. The Prime Minister replied to the presentation to him of the Canadian National Exhibition Gold Medal Friday and made an address opening the CNE later that day.

After a tour of CNE exhibits, the Pearson party flew to Vancouver.

VISITS QUEBEC

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker is on a trip to Quebec province this week and is expected to cover a variety of activities as a visit to a fire engine factory and an appearance at a country dance.

The Progressive Conservative leader spent Monday in St. Hyacinthe, Que., and moved Wednesday to Nicolet-Yamaska.

He will visit a number of points in Brome-Missisquoi constituency Thursday.

He is to wind up his tour with a press conference in Montreal Friday before returning to Ottawa.

BE PREDICTABLE

"Keep them guessing!" may sometimes be good tactics in love, war, politics, business, football and the three-card-trick. But not in driving, says the Ontario Safety League. Be predictable whenever you make a move in traffic.

SOUTH MARYSBURG W.C.T.U.

The July meeting of the South Marysburg W.C.T.U. was held Wednesday evening, July 21st, at South Bay Church hall with Mrs. Striker in charge. Devotional was given by Mrs. Striker on the topic, "Jesus and His Disciples", with special thought on the first four who were fishermen. A letter from Shariene Drury thanked the Union for sending her to camp at Concession this year. A number of pupils from South Marysburg Central School received Provincial prizes on their Temperance posters. They were Randy Murphy, Grade 5, 2nd prize, $2.00; Norma Aulhouse, Gr. 4, 2nd prize, $1.50; Kathy Walker, Grade 2, 3rd prize, $1.00. A special recognition certificate went to Donald Striker for his poster.

Plans were made for Little White Ribboner meeting in August to be at Millford United Church, with Mrs. Quentin Minaker and Mrs. Don Welbanks in charge. Mrs. Morley Helmer to give the devotional. Readings were given by Mrs. Morley Helmer and Mrs. Norma Emlaw. The hostess, Mrs. M. Head, assisted by Mrs. Emlaw, served a dainty lunch. A social half hour was enjoyed.

THE UPPER ROOM

Read Luke 9:18-25
Now it happened that as he was praying alone the disciples were with him. (Luke 9:18, RSV.)
The Bible reading and text for today tell of an occasion when Jesus was at prayer. It may be that He became so absorbed in prayer that He forgot His disciples were near. Perhaps they so little understood His feelings that He seemed to them to be alone among them.

No matter how "lost in the crowd" we may feel, no matter how our best friends sometimes fail to understand us, we can know God is near us if we pray. Indeed, He will never seem nearer than when we are in the midst of our enemies — if we pray.

Whether we pray at home, at work, in church privately before the service, or with a group, we are always assured that God is ready to listen — and to speak to us.

Prayer: May we, O Lord, even when our closest friends seem far away, find ourselves near to Thee in prayer. May we learn more and more to hear Thee speak and then to do Thy will. In the name of our Lord and Master, Thy Son, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen".

Thought for the Day: God is ever ready to hear us. It is for us to speak to Him — and to listen. —Miriam S. Lewis, Research Librarian (Pennsylvania)

THINKING TWICE

We shall never be sorry afterwards for thinking twice before we speak, for counting the cost just before entering on any new course, for sleeping over stings and injuries before saying or doing anything in answer, or for carefully considering any business scheme presented to us before putting money or name into it. It will save us much regret, loss or sorrow. Always remember to do nothing rashly.

South Bay

Mrs. Brown of Kingston is spending a week with her son, Mr. Ken Minaker, Mrs. Minaker and family, and her daughter, Mrs. Howard Gyde, Mr. Gyde and family.

Friends are glad to know baby Gyde is home from the hospital in Toronto and is improving nicely. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dulmage and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Whallam attended the Dulmage O'Brien wedding held in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Denton were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wrex Hicks and Mrs. Myrtle Hicks. Miss Lydia Hicks will return home with them and visit her sister, Mrs. Noel Ryckman and Mr. Ryckman at Downsview.

LITTLE WHITE RIBBONER W.C.T.U. MEETING

The meeting of the L. W. Ribboners met at Millford United Church August 18 in afternoon with the President, Mrs. Helen Striker in charge. Mrs. Striker called on Mrs. Don Welbanks and Mrs. Quentin Minaker to conduct the service for the L.W.R. The child service for the L.W.R. was given by Mrs. Kenneth Minaker; Dean Murray, son of Mrs. Murray Head; Karen Francis, daughter of Mrs. Douglas Miller, and Janet Lynn, daughter of Mrs. Don Cressy. During the singing of "When Mothers of Salford", the mothers were asked to come forward with their children and Mrs. Welbanks took charge of the Reception Service. Mrs. Minaker tied the ribbon on each baby's wrist after which "Jesus Loves Me" was sung.

Mrs. Morley Helmer was called on for the Devotional. It was decided to dispense with the September meeting. Next meeting in November. There will be literature for Millford Fair, and blotters for the Central School. There were two girls present who attended the W.C.T.U. camp at Lake Concession.

Debra McCaw gave her report, also thanked the Union for sending them. A reading was given by Mrs. Carl Ackerman. All were invited to the Sunday School room where ice cream, cookies and freshies were served.

James Rogers, 1726-1790.

1. The statement that he was an emigrant from Ireland with his family in 1740 is wrong. Cuneo, in his book, states that Robert was born in 1731, shortly after his parents came from Ireland, with three sons, Samuel, Daniel and James. The book says that 'The brief entry (that of Robert's baptism, and his birth 18 November 1731) by the town clerk is the earliest known record of his parents.' It goes on to say 'Burdened with three small sons, Samuel, Daniel, and James, they may have arrived only a short time before Robert's birth.'
All references to James in accounts of Rogers' Rangers refer to James as an older brother of Robert. This conflicts with the article in Chadwick's Ontarian Families, which calls Robert as born in 1724 and James in 1726. One must follow the American version, as they have access to official records.
So, it is evident that the Rogers family had come to America about 1730, not 1740.
2. I have suggested a change from the Seven Years War, to the 'Conquest of Canada.' It is difficult to cut down the wording in this regard, because only so many words can appear on the plaque. You will recall that the British and Europeans refer to this war as The Seven Years War. The Americans call it the French and Indian War. Canadians (English) call it the Conquest of Canada.
This last might be unpleasant to our French-Canadian friends; the English might find it confusing, as would the Americans, particularly ~~xx~~ if it were called the Seven Years War. I feel that 'The Conquest of Canada, with dates 1755-1762, gives the clearest picture.
3. In line three I feel that the word Queen's should be substituted with ~~Rogers~~ Rogers, the name by which the unit was known to all and sundry. Where the authorities in Toronto got the Queen's I do not know. I call it incorrect, and have so changed it in my version.
4. I feel that the words 'A Loyalist' are redundant. If he fought in the Am. Revolution on the British side, he WAS a Loyalist. At the same time he was Major Commandant of the King's Rangers, and it was in this rank that history knows him. So, what better could one say than: 'As Major Rogers, he commanded:' which sounds better and tells more than 'Loyalist.'
5. I have omitted the 2nd Battalion because it is confusing. If the truth were known, his was the 2nd Battalion, Queen's Rangers. However, as all records, including Haldimand Papers, etc., refer to them simply as the King's Rangers, I see only confusion in adding '2nd Battalion.'
6. I strongly question the 50,000 acres. Major Rogers' petition, as copied from the U. E. Loyalists' Transactions, Sesqui-Centennial Number, 1935, lists his property. This included 'one farm in Rockingham; 2500 acres in Cumberland County; 3000 acres south of Lake Champlain; 1200 acres granted to him for service in the Conquest of Canada.' This makes a total of 7,700 acres plus the home farm. This is why I reduced the acreage to 'some 8000 acres.'
7. The wording in the 'Approved Version' is deceiving where it refers to the party which followed Rogers to Fredericksburgh. It reads 'he led a party of about 300 disbanded King's Rangers and their families.' I suggest a change, as the party, all told, was 299, of which only 129 were soldiers.
8. I have substituted Fredericksburgh for 'this vicinity,' as nowhere does it really tell where Rogers settled. Outsiders do not know where Fredericksburgh is, unless we tell them on the plaque.
9. Finally, I think it should be recorded that he died and is buried in Fredericksburgh, and for that reason I suggest the change as in my last line.

Major
 Lieut.-Col. JAMES ROGERS 1726-1790

Born in Ireland, Rogers emigrated with his family to New Hampshire ^{about 1730} in 1740. During the ^{War for the Conquest of Canada} Seven Years' War he served in the ~~Queen's~~ ^{Rogers'} Rangers, a provincial corps raised by his brother Robert, and was present at the capture Louisbourg ~~and~~ and of Quebec. A ^{as Maj Rogers} Loyalist, he commanded the ~~2nd Battalion~~, King's Rangers, in the American Revolution, thereby forfeiting some ⁷50,000 acres in the old colonies. In 1784 he led ^{his} a party of about 300 ^{numbering 300} disbanded King's Rangers and their families to this ^{Fredericksburgh} ~~vicinity~~ where they were granted land. Rogers settled in this township, where he was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel of the Fredericksburgh Militia, but later resided for a time in Prince Edward County, ^{returning later to Fredericksburgh where he d. in 1790}

Dear Doctor:

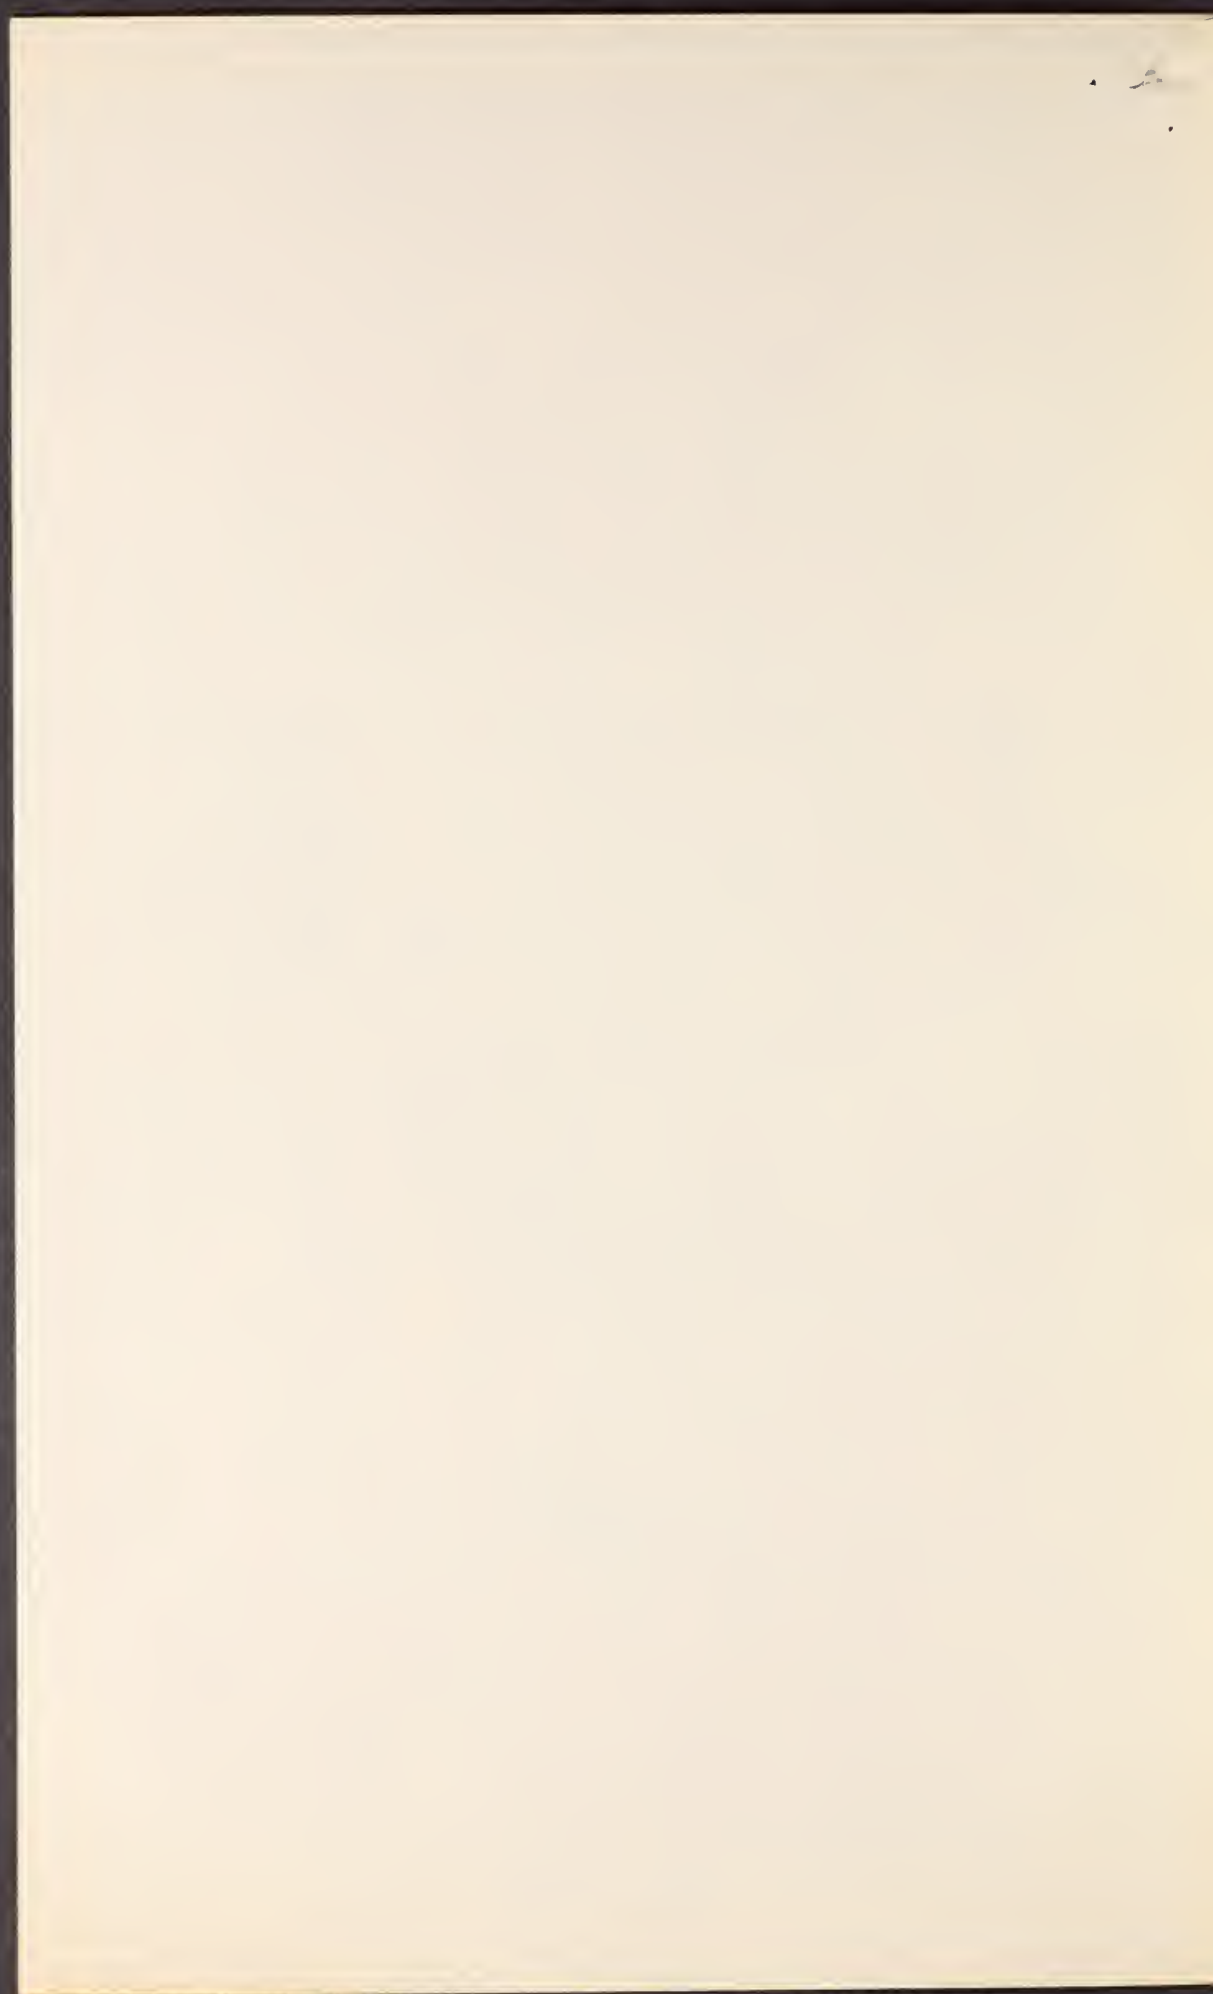

I thought you might be interested in adding to your collection the attached poem on Major Robert Rogers. It was given to me years ago by someone, that I can't remember. I presume the author's name is unknown.

I donated a copy of the paper I read on "Rogers - Range & Loyalty" to your collection so hope you got it alright.

Also I submitted with my application the "Rogers Family Memoir" which is the genealogy from about 1666 down to my father's generation. This also was intended for your collection.

I would appreciate confirmation on these two points as I was anxious to record this data for future generations of my family who might be interested. Both copies were given to Dr. Allison with my application for membership.

I heard from a Mr. Herbert Hagerty of Toronto who gave me a list of 4 books that he has on the Rogers. I assume he belongs to this branch of the H & B.

I bought Bruce Hultshison's book "The Struggle For The Border". Chap 13 Aug 1899 contains an account of Major Robert Rogers obsession with his dream of a North West Passage.

I have ordered Kenneth Roberts book "Northwest Passage".

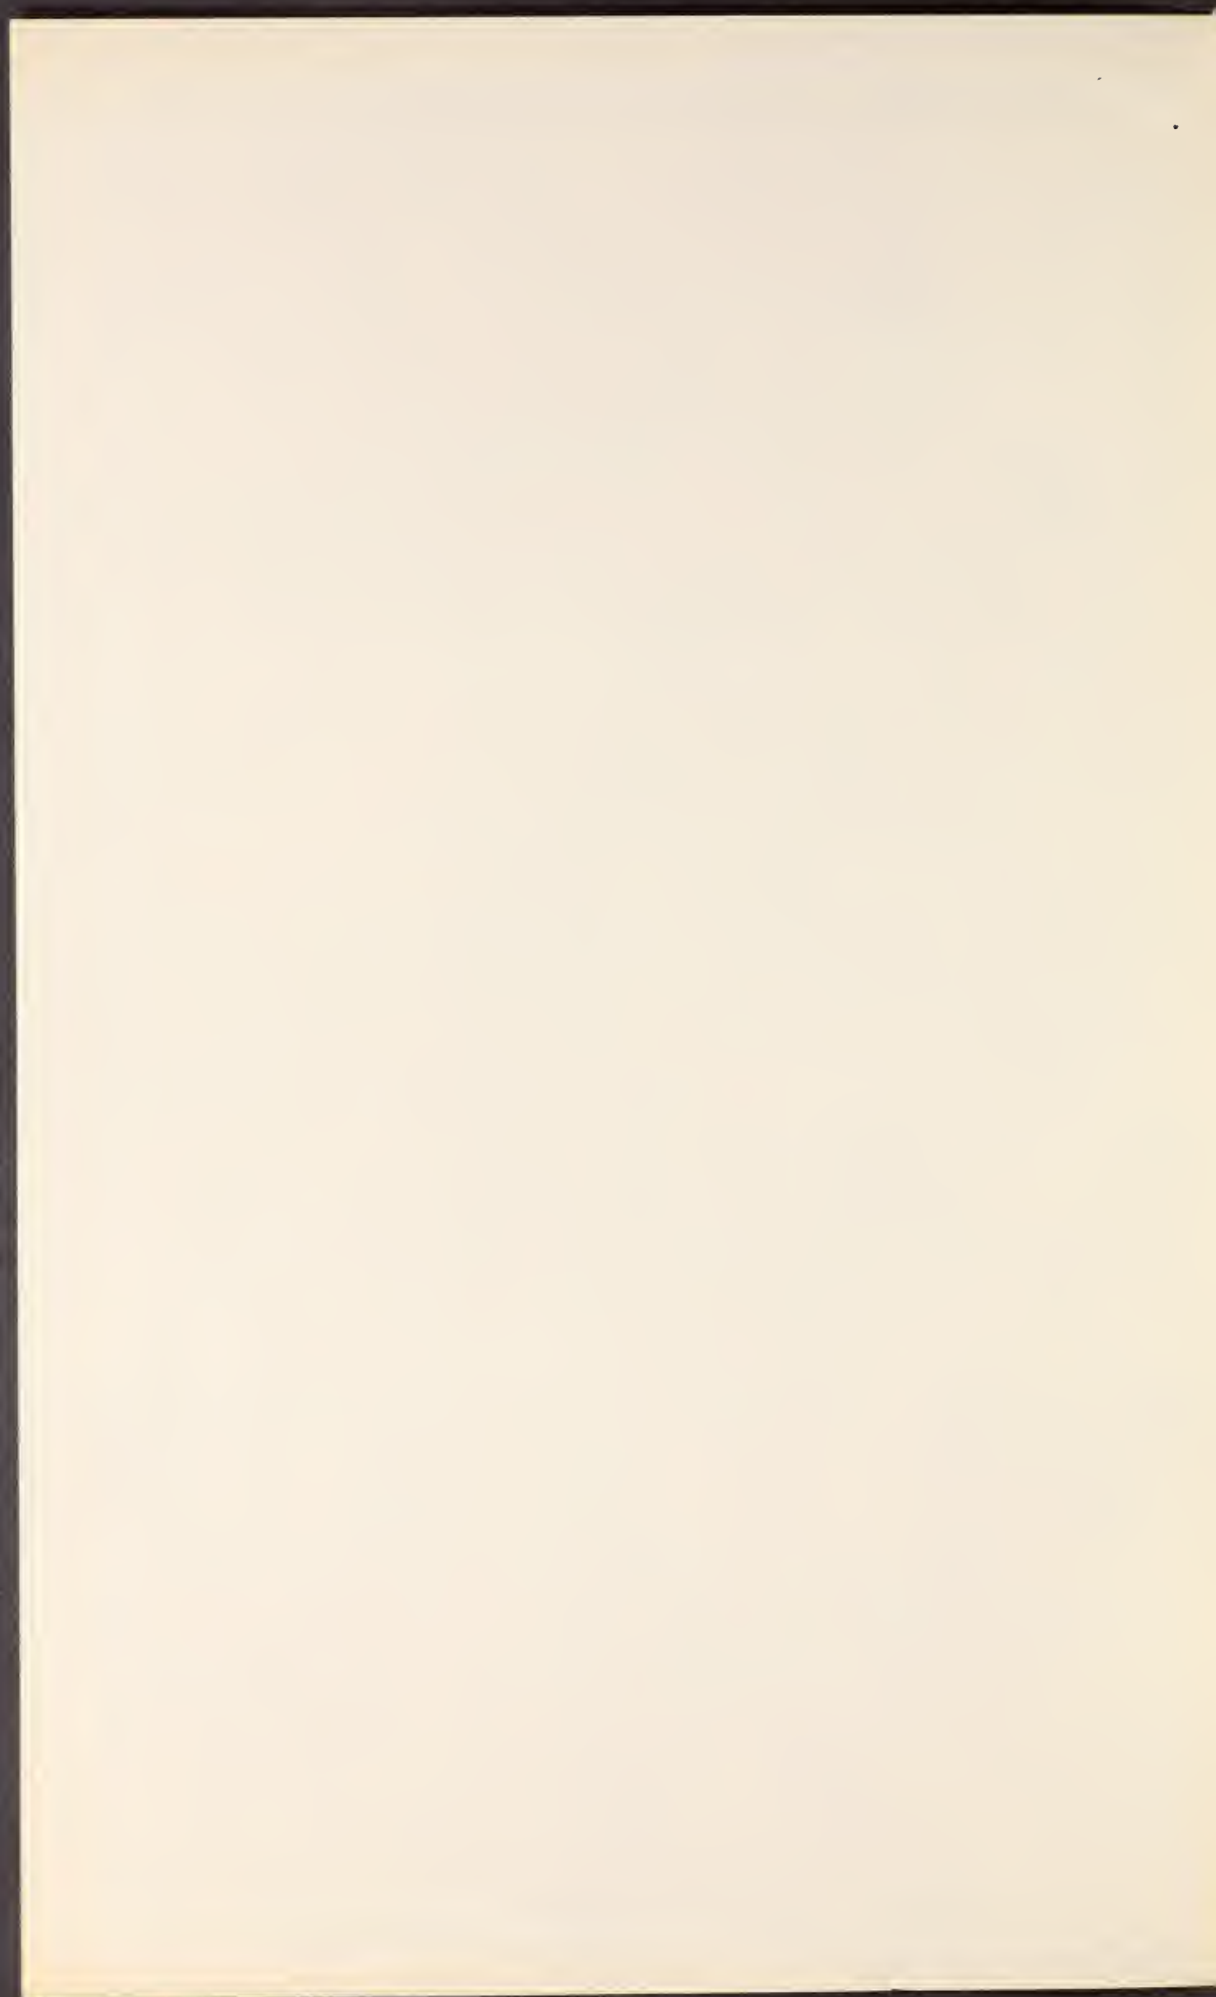

I am collecting everything I can on the Rogers and particularly on Major Robert Rogers and "Rogers Rangers". I find him a fascinating character.

I would appreciate it if you would tell me of any reference books or current books that I could buy in this regard. I have kept a scrap book for over twenty five years and have clippings that add to my data.

I intend to write to The American Historical Genealogical Society whom I am told have a book called "Rogers Family Records" by J. Montgomery Seaver and also other information on the family history.

I would appreciate any advice or help you would give me.

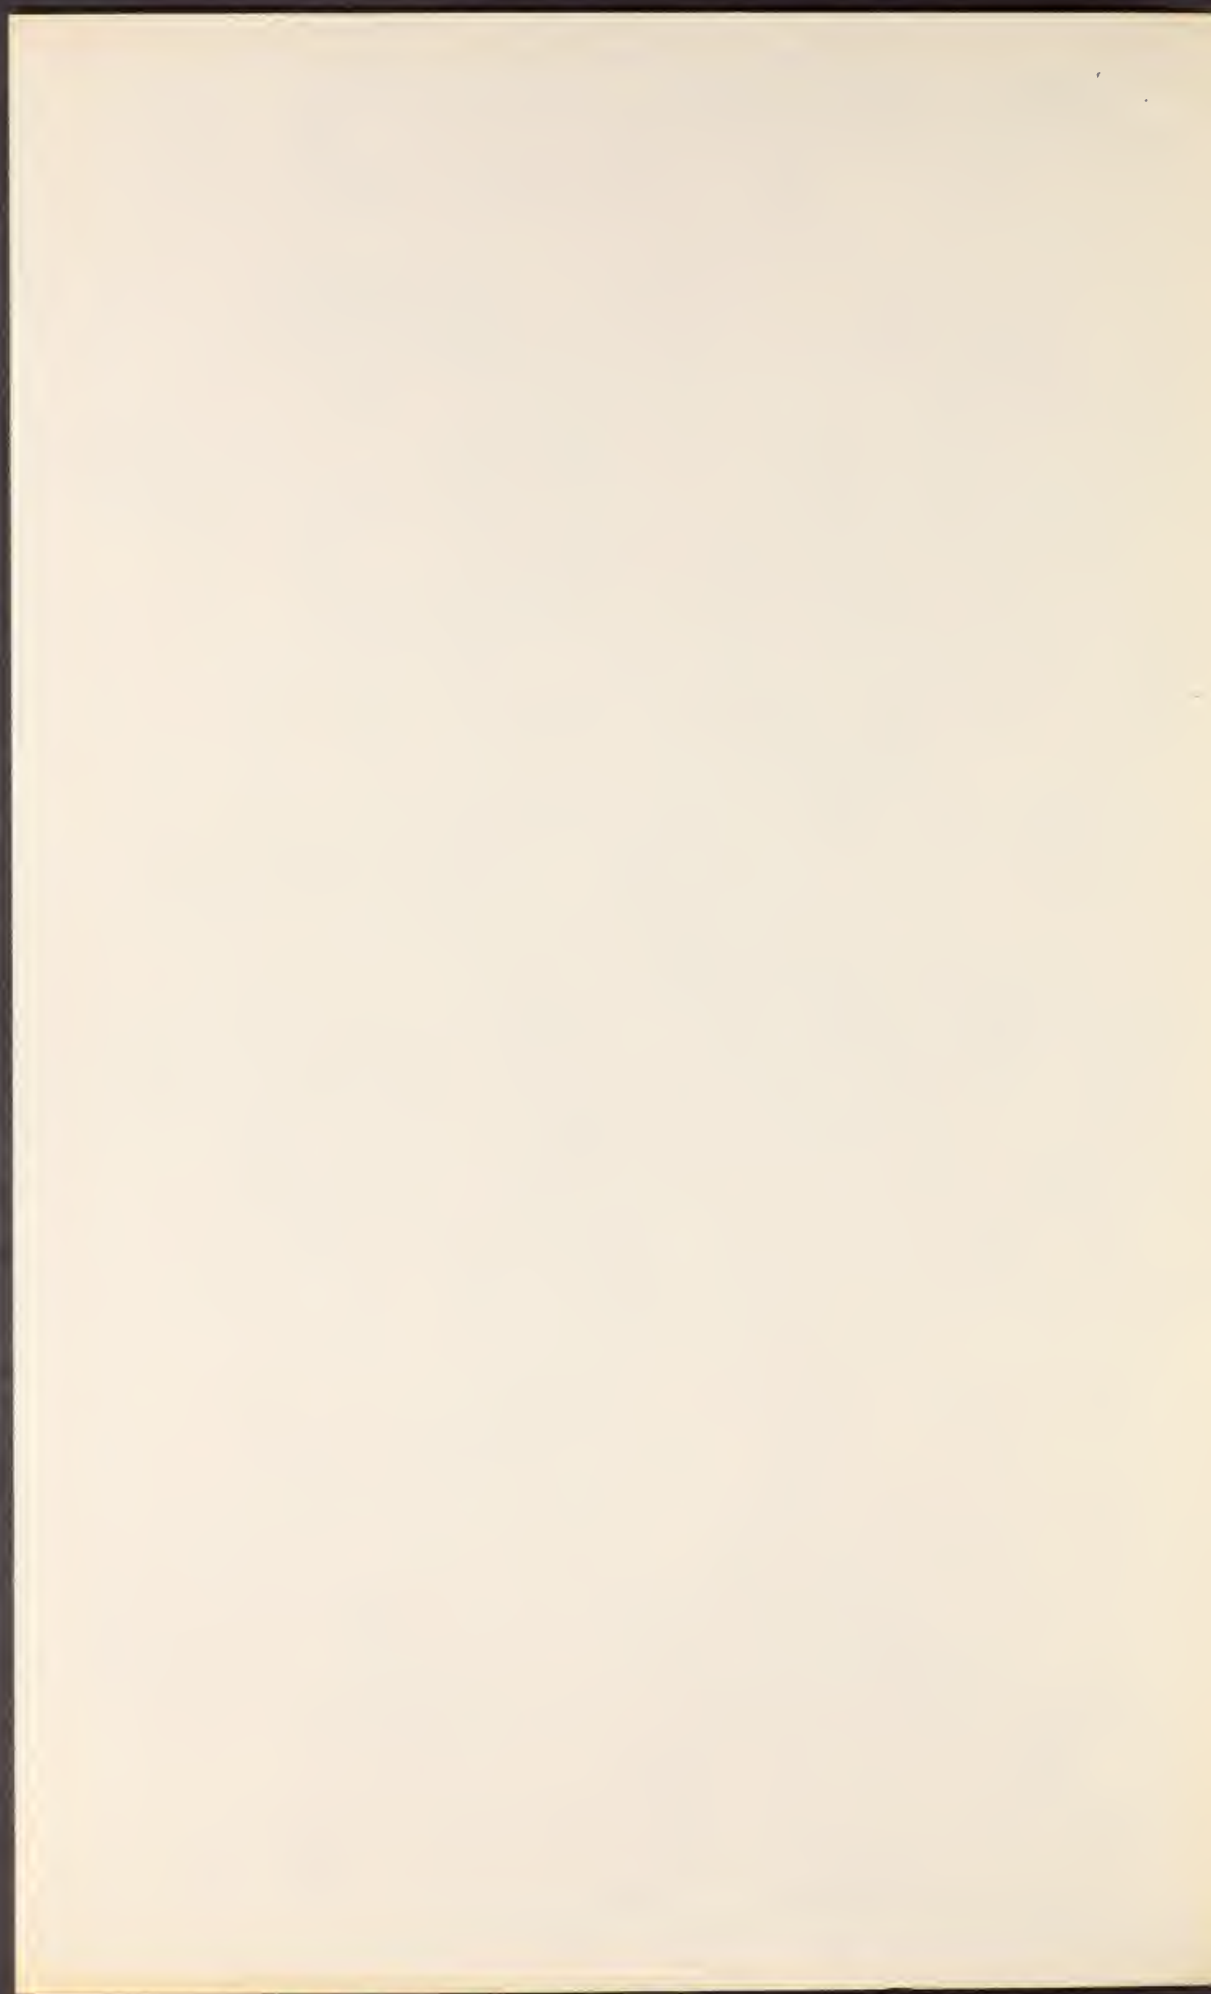

I intend this summer to try and locate the burial place of Col James Rogers and his wife who Dr Caniff says were buried in 1792 in Fiddlersburg Twp. Mary Rogers who married John Armstrong Secretary to Governor Lincoln was the mother of Dr Armstrong quoted by Caniff. She is buried in Fiddlersburg.

I am working on some prospective ③ members. A Mr Albert M Peabody of R3 Colborne came to see me. He is apparently related on the female side through Mary Ann Royce who was a daughter of Col James Roland who married
Col John Peter Skiff of Hastings &
Northumberland. I sent him an application form.

I am still working on my wife's genealogy. She was John Embury an descendant of Phillip Embury the first Methodist Preacher (Lay Preacher) in America and in Playter's "Lost Chapter of Methodism" he is referred to as the founder of the Methodist Church in America. He was a cousin of Barbara Heck who urged him to become a preacher and actively helped him start the first meeting house and later the first Methodist Church in New York City. Playter says if he is the founder then she can be referred to as the founder. He died in the States and there is said to be a monument in Ash Grove Memorial Park erected when the US celebrated 100 years of Methodism and honored his memory as founder in this way.

The Emburys came to near Prescott with Barbara Heck and there helped found the "Blue Church". Some of the Emburys came on to Hug Bay and are listed among the original subscribers to the Hug Bay Methodist Church.

I know all this but so you haven't been able to get it together in genealogical order, so I can have Ida submit an application.
 Again if you have any data it would be most welcome.

I am thrilled to be back in the country where this W.E.L. history took place and hope to take advantage of my sojourn here to learn all I can and particularly to compile my own family history. I hope to be able to pick up some anecdotes on the individuals concerned to make the history really live.

I had a plan to effect this which I may try in the future.

I apologize for this trespass on your time. It was good meeting you and will look forward to seeing you again.

Yours sincerely.

Jack Rogers.

BOBCAT

By Martha Keller

Washington was a colder man.
Washington could wait.
Washington was a bolder man.
Washington was great.
Rogers, he was a common man, like other backwoods men.
But wars is won by the riflemen,
The rank and file and the riflemen,
By the ragbag, ragtag riflemen that turned and fought again.

Washington was a rigid man.
Washington was right.
Washington was a frigid man.
But Rogers, he could fight.
Rogers fought like a mountain cat, fought in the Indian style.
And wars is won by the riflemen,
The rank and file and the riflemen,
By the ragtag, bobtail riflemen that marched another mile.

Washington was the hunting hawk
That sometimes sits and thinks.
Rogers, he was a tomahawk
And a creeping, leaping lynx.
So were the men that marched with him in caps of coon and fur.
For wars is won by the riflemen,
The rank and file and the riflemen,
By the wildcat, bobcat riflemen, for that is what they were.

"Receiving word, possibly from Robert, of the raising of the new Ranging Companies, James left his widow mother's house at Rumford, N.H. & arriving at Boston, he convinced Hobbs that he was the most likely man for his ensign. It is probable that Hobbs had known James Rogers' father, both having been early settlers of the N.H. frontier. This factor along with the growing enchantment of the name Rogers paved the way for a third member of the family to join the Corps of Rangers. James was not heralded by any brilliant military exploits of the past. He had only served in minor scouting parties in King George's War. Nevertheless, James rounded out into an invaluable Ranger officer."

"On Aug 23, Capt Hobbs began his march from Boston with his 32 nondescript Rangers for the rendezvous at Albany. Their names first appear in musters from Aug 1

My grandfather, James Rogers, Captain of the Queen's Rangers, after the peace of 1763 and the Capture of Quebec, ending the "Old French War," who had served faithfully during the war, returned to New England, married Margaret, daughter of the Rev. David McGregor, and obtained a large tract of land from the Crown in a wild tract of country claimed by New Hampshire and afterward set apart as a separate state named Vermont. Here he organized a large county, naming it Londonderry, and set eagerly to work to tame the wilderness and form a home for his growing family. He was prospering when the outbreak of the "American Revolution" destroyed the fair prospects

He was appointed commander of St. John's, Nye,

The Rogers came to America about 1742 and settled in Dunbarton Township. Two sons:--Robert, well-known in the history of those times, and James served all through the old French war; a third, Richard, died in the service and was buried at Fort William Henry about six weeks before its capture by Montcalm, and the terrible massacre which then took place; and it is said that his body was dug up and scalped by the Indians on account of his beautiful hair.

As early in the spring of 1784 as practicable, they prepared for their passage up the River to Kingston. The voyage was made in Durham boats--large strong craft used for conveying the troops and their baggage to their different posts, and I believe the only boats which could get through the rapids till long afterwards. Where the water was too swift for rowing, these boats were "poled" up, or dragged by ropes, and sometimes they had to hire teams from the farmers to assist them. At such times the women and children had to walk.

After a month of such travel they arrived at Kingston where the Government agent was waiting to consult the leaders of the different parties, and give them their choice of location. Maj. Jas. Rogers chose Fredericksburgh, whither they proceeded, and at length reached their destination June 17, 1784. A marquee was pitched for the women; the rest must have had tents. Here he died in 1790

That your Memorialist in 1755 served in His Majesty's Provincial Troops as Ensign, in 1756 as Lieutenant of a Corps of Rangers and in 1757 was appointed a captain of an Independent Company of Rangers served in most of the Campaigns in the late French War in North America, was at the taking of Lewisburgh and Quebec.

That your Memorialist in 1763 & 1764 went to the relief of Detroit and served during the Indian War after which period your Memorialist settled in the Colonies where he purchased and improved Land in the Province of New Hampshire and New York which he effected with much expense and labour. His Excellency General Tryon was pleased to appoint him Lieut. Col. of Militia and first Assistant Justice of the Court of Common Pleas in the County of Cumberland--from which he in the month of April 1777 made his Escape and at the hazard of his Life joined his Majesty's Troops at New York leaving his Wife & Family to the resentment of the Enemy who plundered them of every Thing they could find with their wonted rage and inhumanity, a recital of which your Memorialist avoids as it could not be contained in the compass of a Memorial--In the spring of 1778 he was appointed a Major to a Provincial Corps in New York and in the Spring of 1779 a Major Commandant of the 2d Battalion of Kings Rangers which appointment he held till the general reduction took place in Canada.

That in consequence of the Loyalty and Services rendered to His Majesty's Government by your Memorialist he was proscribed his Country and his property sold for the good of the State.

Maj. James Rogers
Settlement of Upper Canada
pp 69, 117

When the peace of 1763, after the capture of Quebec, ended the "Old French War," my grandfather, James Rogers, Captain of the Queen's Rangers, who had served faithfully during the war, returned to New England, married Margaret, daughter of the Rev. David McGregor, of Londonderry, N.H., and obtained a large grant of land from the Crown in a wild tract of country claimed by N. H. & afterward set apart as a separate state named Vermont. Here he organized a large county, naming it Londonderry, and set eagerly to tame the wilderness & form a home for his growing family. He was prospering when the outbreak of the Am. Revolution destroyed the fair prospects of many besides himself. British officers, if they would not renounce their allegiance & join the rebels, were imprisoned, their property confiscated & their families exposed to insult & persecution. All that could, then escaped, as one of them expressed it, "to some place in the King's Dominions;" but they were prevented from taking their families with them . . .

Jas. R. was appointed to command at St. John's, a post on the Richelieu (Sorel) River, called the "Key of Canada." There he could communicate with his family sometimes, and send them money as often as there was a flag passing back & forth.

James' wife, being delicate, & the children being young, left her home in Vermont & took refuge with her father in 'Derry, N.H. The McGregors had come to America many years before. It is said that the Rev. Mr. McGregor brought all the inhabitants of his parish with him, that they settled all together, & named their county Londonderry. It is also said that when he was but a youth of 16 he fired the signal gun from the cathedral roof in old Londonderry which announced the arrival of the relieving fleet. The Poyne family came about 1772 & settled in the west ("to-wah") county, within its jurisdiction. Two of the sons: Robert, well-known in the history of those times, & James, my grandfather, served all through the old French war; a third, Richard, died in the service & was buried at Ft. M. Henry about 2 yrs before its capture by Montcalm, & the terrible massacre which then took place: & it is said that his body was discovered & spoiled by the Indians on account of his beautiful hair.

As soon as possible after the peace (of 1763) the family made their way to Montreal where that winter they remained, & were joined by David (1772-1824), the second son, who had been placed by his father at school in Oswego, I think, previous to the war. Neither did Mary, the eldest daughter, accompany them. She had been married the previous year to a Mr. Armstrong, a young gentleman lately arrived from the 'old country,' of good family, very lofty thoughts but very small practical attainments. But he was now established in business with fair prospects, so did not come to Canada till some time after the others.

As early in the spring of 1784 as practicable, they prepared for their passage up the river to Kingston. The voyage was made in Durham boats--large, strong craft used for conveying the troops & their baggage to their different posts, & I believe the only boats which could get through the rapids till long afterward. Where the water was too swift for rowing, these boats were 'poled' up, or dragged by ropes, & sometimes they had to hire teams from the farmers to assist them. At such times the women & children had to walk, which they greatly preferred at any time to sitting in the boats. The inhabitants along the River were mostly French, & very kind to the strangers.

After a month of such travel they arrived at Kingston where the Government agent was waiting to consult the leaders of the different parties, & give them their choice of location. Maj. Jas. Rogers (as he was now) chose Fred'ksburgh, whither they proceeded, & at length reached their destination June 17, 1784. A marquee was pitched for the women; the rest must have had tents. My grandfather being an officer, was able with his half pay to procure many comforts for the family, more than most of the settlers could. It did not take long to erect a log house. They had brought supplies with them for the current year, & every summer after, as long as my grandfather was able, he went to Montreal & procured such things as they needed. After providing as good a shelter as they could, they proceeded to clear the land, but it was too late in the season to raise anything but turnips. The Gov't supplied the needful tools, implements for cultivating the land, & the means of subsistence for the first year, consisting of "pork & beans." I do not think any flour was supplied, & those who had no means to purchase it felt the want very much. After they raised wheat there was no way of making it into flour nearer than Kingston, & no way to get there only by water; so several would join to get their grain ready, & then whoever could best afford the time would take it down, often hindered by rough weather. On one such occasion "the Major" had gone down with the boat, & was prevented from returning by a strong head wind. When the tenth day arrived those at home were entirely destitute of food except turnips, & the young men, calling upon their nearest neighbour, a young German, Hans Wolvenden Hovenden, found him out of everything but cheese. But that night the boat arrived, & all was well.

Rogers explored Little Lake dist. & took land there, had a house erected, & moved up to Little Lake, but his health failing rapidly he returned to 3 where he died in Sept 1790
